My Desire is to make Greater Impact

With a deep sense of responsibility, humility and gratitude, I acknowledge and appreciate your abiding commitment to our community and your continuous interest in advancing the development of Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

I cannot thank you enough for the privilege and opportunity to serve as your representative in the Lagos State House of Assembly. Indeed, service is a privilege. The opportunity to provide political leadership is the ultimate privilege that only a few people get to enjoy, and I do not take it for granted. I have embraced it as an opportunity to positively touch lives, defend the interests of our people and contribute meaningfully to the development of our constituency and Lagos State at large.

For me, the essence of politics is service. Once it is no longer about the good of the people, the development of the community and Lagos State, its essence is lost.

My experience as a Legislator has been a most humbling one. By the grace of God and through the confidence reposed in me by the good people of Eti-Osa Constituency 02, it has also been a fruitful journey. The dividends of our representation are evident in the lives of residents, in the opportunities created for our young people, in the support extended to vulnerable households, and in the projects facilitated across the constituency.

Over the years, we have approached the assignment placed in our hands with total commitment and complete dedication to duty, conscious that you invested your trust, hope and mandate in us for a purpose. We have continued to use the instruments available to a Legislator - lawmaking, legislative advocacy, policy formulation, oversight, liaison with the Executive and government agencies, constituency engagement and direct intervention - to deliver value to the people.

The legislature is an institution with its peculiar norms, conventions and rules. Premium is placed on ranking, seniority, experience, institutional relationships, and a legislator's capacity to engage constructively with colleagues, Ministries, Departments, and Agencies. Greater experience in the chamber creates greater latitude for quality representation and greater capacity to attract attention to the needs of the constituency.

We are grateful that Eti-Osa Constituency 02 has continued to benefit from experienced representation, sustained engagement and a clear understanding of the issues that affect our people.

Our plan of action over the years has been fashioned around qualitative representation and the delivery of the Eti-Osa Agenda, with education, human capital development, healthcare, empowerment, welfare, infrastructure and community engagement at its core.

Through your unflinching support, we have recorded measurable progress across these areas. We have used a combination of legislative activism, community development interventions and empowerment programmes to record these gains. Yet, even with all that has been achieved, we know that there is still much more to do.

The needs of our people continue to evolve. Our children and young people require greater educational support, digital skills and access to decent work. Women, artisans, traders, elderly residents, persons living with disabilities and vulnerable households require sustained support. Our communities require better infrastructure, stronger sanitation systems, improved safety, reliable water access and responsive public services.

Our Agenda for 2027 is therefore one of CONSOLIDATION, EXPANSION AND SUSTAINABILITY.

We shall consolidate the gains already recorded. We shall expand the scope of programmes that have impacted lives. We shall introduce and pursue new initiatives that respond to the changing realities of our constituency and the development priorities of Lagos State.

The 2027 Agenda is built and anchored on the objectives outlined in seven of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals - Goals 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8 and 9. It is designed to improve access to quality healthcare, education, skills, employment, gender inclusion, clean water, sanitation, innovation, enterprise and community infrastructure.

I remain fully committed to the cause of advancing the interests of the people of Eti-Osa Constituency 02. The pact I have with you remains unshaken. No challenge or circumstance will come between us and our collective resolve to build a stronger constituency.

I have chosen to remain a strong voice in carrying out my legislative duties while continuing our intervention programmes and services in the constituency, because that is my understanding of the assignment you gave me.

I thank you for the confidence you reposed in me to continue to speak on your behalf, knowing fully well that I represent the knowledgeable, confident, intelligent and resilient people of Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

By the grace of God and with your immense goodwill, I have been returned by my party, the All Progressives Congress, as its candidate for the Lagos State House of Assembly seat for Eti-Osa Constituency 02 in the forthcoming 2027 general election.

I hereby humbly solicit your vote once again so that we can consolidate the gains already made, bring greater influence of government to our Constituency and further advance the Eti-Osa Agenda.

Our strength is in your mandate, enabling me to continue to be your voice. Together, we are stronger. Together, we are better. Together, we will do more.

Thank you for the privilege of service.

Your Representative,

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu

UPDATE

Supreme Court Validates Yishawu's Position on State Control of Land & the NIWA Act

Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's position that some sections of the NIWA Act are in conflict with some sections of the Constitution and the Land Use Act has been validated by a landmark judgment of the Supreme Court limiting the reach of the National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act over lands adjoining waterways within the states.

The judgment affirms the position articulated by Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa Constituency II in the Lagos State House of Assembly, which he canvassed in a motion raised years earlier on the floor of the Lagos State House of Assembly: while the Federal Government may regulate navigation and related activities on inland waterways, it cannot, through the NIWA Act or administrative action, assume blanket control of land located within the territorial jurisdiction of a state merely because that land adjoins a waterway.

In the motion, he called for the amendment of the National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act of 2004, with the House resolving to call on the

UPDATE

Governor of Lagos State to direct the Attorney-General and Commissioner for Justice to take steps towards appealing all judgments with respect to the National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act, 2004 as it affects Land and Inland waterways and the National Assembly to amend the National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act, 2004 to respect the provisions of the Land Use Act, 1978.

The Supreme Court has now drawn that constitutional boundary with clarity. In its decision, the Court held that Sections 12 and 13 of the NIWA Act are invalid to the extent that they purport to give the Federal Government or NIWA authority over lands adjoining waterways for purposes unrelated to navigation, maritime activities and fishing. It further restrained the Federal Government from dealing with such lands for non-navigational purposes within Lagos and other states.

Engr. Yishawu's intervention at the Lagos Assembly was therefore not only timely but constitutionally sound. His position recognised the crucial distinction between the waterway itself, which may fall within the scope of federal authority for navigation and maritime regulation, and the land adjoining the waterway, whose administration remains subject to the constitutional and statutory land-management powers of the states.

“The Supreme Court has affirmed what we have consistently maintained: federal authority over navigation cannot be stretched into a general power to take over, allocate, regulate or commercially control land within the states,” Engr. Yishawu said. “Land administration is central to the development, planning, housing, environmental management and economic future of every state.”

The ruling is particularly significant for Lagos State, where waterfront and adjoining lands are integral to urban planning, housing delivery, investment, environmental protection, transportation infrastructure and community development. It provides needed constitutional certainty for state governments, investors, host communities and planning authorities operating in waterfront areas.

FLASHBACK

YISHAWU MOVES FOR THE AMENDMENT OF THE NIWA ACT

Honourable Gbolahan Yishawu has made a call to the National Assembly to amend a section of the National Waterways Inland Authority (NIWA) Act of 2004, which gives it absolute control of waterways and all the activities around 100 metres area of waterfronts across the states of the federation.

Moving a motion on the matter during plenary of the House, the Chairman of the House Committee on Waterfronts Infrastructure, and member representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02, Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu observed that the Act has considerably reduced the powers of the Lagos State Waterways Authority (LASTWA) and is hindering development in the state.

He urged the state government to appeal all the court judgments won by NIWA on the matter. Seconding the motion, Hon. Rasheed Makinde argued that "The constitution makes the Land Use Act superior to NIWA Act. So it has elevated the Land Use Act, which gives the State Governors powers over all lands in the state."

The Speaker of the House, Rt. Hon. Mudashiru Obasa in support of the motion, observed that the issue was long overdue and described it as a welcome development.

The House therefore resolved to:
Call on His Excellency, Mr. Akinwunmi Ambode, the Governor of Lagos State, to direct the Attorney-General and Commissioner for Justice to take steps towards appealing all judgements with respect to National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act, 2004 as it affects Land and Inland waterways; and
Also call on the National Assembly to amend the National Inland Waterways Authority (NIWA) Act, 2004 to respect the provisions of the Land Use Act, 1978.

UPDATE

Engr. Yishawu noted that the judgment should not be misconstrued as a challenge to the Federal Government's legitimate role in regulating navigable waterways. Rather, it establishes a necessary balance within Nigeria's federal system: the Federal Government retains authority in matters genuinely connected with navigation, maritime operations and fishing, while states retain control over adjoining land used for other lawful purposes.

“This is a victory for constitutionalism, cooperative federalism and the rule of law,” he said. “It protects the right of states to plan and manage their land resources responsibly, while preserving the Federal Government's legitimate responsibility over navigation and inland-waterway operations.”

GOY Free JAMB Programme Reaches 12,000 Beneficiaries

More than 12,000 young residents of Eti-Osa Constituency II have received free JAMB forms through Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's annual education-support programme over the past 15 years, with the 2026 edition, the 13th, taking the cumulative number of beneficiaries to a historic milestone.

Launched by Yishawu to reduce the financial obstacles facing prospective undergraduates, the scheme has enabled thousands of students to register for the Unified Tertiary Matriculation Examination and take a first step toward admission to higher institutions.

Many earlier beneficiaries have since graduated and entered the workforce, according to the programme account, illustrating the initiative's longer-term objective of converting access to examinations into educational and employment opportunities.

EDUCATION

At the February 2026 distribution, a beneficiary, Teslim, recalled that his older cousin received a free form about eight years earlier, obtained university admission, graduated with strong results and now works for a reputable company on Lagos Island.

The programme has become a recurring educational intervention in Eti-Osa II, complementing Yishawu's stated focus on human-capital development and access to tertiary education. His office has previously reported the distribution of free JAMB forms to constituency residents under that agenda.

For Confidence, an Obalende resident who missed admission in the previous year and feared that her father could not pay for another application, the assistance renewed her hope of continuing her education.

“I missed the admission last year because my school of choice didn't select me,” she said. “So, my father said he couldn't afford the fee again this year. I almost gave up, but Engineer Yishawu's form gave me hope again. I know I have a brighter future.”

The initiative aligns with the objective of widening access to inclusive and equitable education under Sustainable Development Goal 4, particularly by removing the application-cost barrier for students from low-income households.

By sustaining the programme for 15 years, Yishawu has created a recurring entry point for young people whose educational ambitions might otherwise be interrupted before they sit for the qualifying examination.

EDUCATION

GOY Launches Free JAMB Revision Classes for Students of Eti-Osa

Engineer Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu this year introduced free JAMB revision classes for no fewer than 250 students in Eti-Osa Constituency II, expanding his annual free JAMB-form distribution programme from examination registration to structured preparation for the Unified Tertiary Matriculation Examination.

The six-week Saturday programme was launched alongside the 13th edition of the free-form distribution at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi, following the constituency programme's cumulative distribution of more than 12,000 JAMB forms over 15 years.

The classes are designed to reinforce learning, improve students' familiarity with computer-based testing and build confidence ahead of the UTME. They offer tuition in 12 subjects: English Language, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Government, Economics, Literature in English, Financial Accounting, Commerce, Christian Religious Knowledge and Islamic Religious Knowledge.

Aisha, a student from the Victoria Island axis, said the classes addressed a major anxiety about sitting for the computer-based examination.

“Getting the free JAMB form was a huge relief, but I was still terrified about facing the actual exam because I am not too familiar with the CBT format,” she said. “The six-week Saturday classes at Y-Arena changed everything for me. The tutors broke down difficult subjects like Chemistry and Physics so clearly, and for the first time, I felt completely ready and confident to sit for the UTME."

Registration for the classes is integrated with the free JAMB-form process, ensuring that beneficiaries can receive academic support after securing examination access.

Students meet each Saturday during the six-week period for intensive revision sessions in a structured learning environment. The model is intended to give participants both subject knowledge and the exam-readiness skills needed to translate their opportunity to register into a stronger chance of success.

Another participant, Chigozie, said the sessions gave students discipline as well as academic support.

"The learning environment was incredible, and having access to quality tutors was really lovely," he said. "My parents were so relieved knowing I was spending my weekends productively. I'm grateful to the Honourable for paying so much attention to our success."

The programme adds a preparatory dimension to Yishawu's established free JAMB-form scheme, which has been publicly described as an intervention supporting human-capital development in Eti-Osa II.

Interested students and parents may contact the Eti-Osa II Constituency Helpdesk by WhatsApp on 08177733881 or by phone on 07031903019 and 07017222319.

Yishawu Offers Million-Naira Grants to Top JAMB Beneficiaries in Eti-Osa 02

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has introduced a one-time grant and scholarship scheme that awards million-naira financial support to the three highest-scoring beneficiaries of his free JAMB-form programme who secure admission into higher institutions, a move aimed at ensuring that financial limitations do not prevent high-performing Eti-Osa II students from beginning university education.

Under the scheme, the three top candidates who obtain admission are eligible for grants intended to cover tuition and related education costs for up to one academic year.

The initiative goes beyond providing examination forms, linking access to tertiary education with a merit-based reward for academic excellence, discipline and resilience. For beneficiaries, the assistance can determine whether admission translates immediately into enrolment or whether university ambitions are deferred because of cost.

Several beneficiaries have completed their studies and moved into employment, according to the programme account, providing an indication of its intended longer-term impact beyond the initial admission stage.

To access the support, eligible students are required to submit their university admission letter, JAMB result and a copy of their student identity card. The requirements are intended to make the selection process clear, verifiable and focused on admitted students.

The grant scheme complements Yishawu's continuing free JAMB-form programme, which he has described as part of a human-capital development agenda for Eti-Osa Constituency II.

By combining examination access, merit recognition and targeted financial aid, the intervention seeks to reduce the gap between academic performance and the ability to afford tertiary education.

EDUCATION

GOY Free GCE Programme Reaches 5,000 Beneficiaries in Eti-Osa

More than 5,000 eligible candidates in Eti-Osa Constituency II have received free GCE forms through Engineer Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's annual examination-support programme since its introduction in 2012, with the 14th edition held in July taking the cumulative total past the 5,000 mark.

The initiative provides General Certificate Examination forms to secondary-school leavers and other eligible residents, creating an alternative route for those seeking to improve O-Level results or meet the entry requirements for tertiary education.

The programme mirrors Yishawu's better-known free JAMB-form scheme by addressing the cost of essential examination registration for residents who may otherwise be unable to pay the fees.

Mr Badmus, an older candidate who received a form through the programme, said it gave him an opportunity to resume an educational journey that had been interrupted years earlier.

“I felt like my educational journey had hit a complete dead end because I couldn't go to school years ago,” he said. “Receiving this free form through Hon. Yishawu is a second chance I won't take for granted.”

Yishawu said the programme was part of a broader commitment to give young people and other learners different routes to academic advancement.

“We will continue to provide different avenues to support our children in achieving their dreams through education,” he said. “No child should be left at home. We are committed to providing the tools they need to succeed.”

By supporting both JAMB and GCE candidates, the intervention recognises that students reach tertiary education through different academic routes and often require more than one opportunity to obtain the necessary qualifications.

The free GCE-form programme reinforces an education strategy that seeks to prevent cost from determining who can sit for key qualifying examinations in Eti-Osa Constituency II.

EDUCATION

GOY Launches Free GCE Revision Classes for Eti-Osa Students

Engineer Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has expanded his education-support initiatives with the launch of the first edition of free GCE revision classes, offering more than 200 candidates in Eti-Osa Constituency II structured coaching and hands-on preparation for computer-based examinations.

The programme, flagged off in August, builds on the maiden free JAMB revision classes and is intended to help General Certificate Examination candidates strengthen core O-Level subjects, close academic gaps and develop the confidence required to navigate the modern CBT examination format.

A key element of the initiative is practical exposure to computer-based testing, which can present a significant obstacle for candidates who have limited access to computers or prior experience with electronic examination systems.

Kelani, one of the participants, said the training gave her the practical confidence she lacked when registering for the GCE.

“When I registered for the GCE, my biggest fear was the computer-based format because I had limited access to computers and didn't know how to navigate the test software," she said. "However, the class gave me hands-on experience with CBT practice tools, and I'm more confident about passing all my papers."

The classes are delivered at a dedicated learning centre by experienced tutors and cover key O-Level subjects in a focused academic environment. The sessions are designed to help students practise time management, address areas of academic weakness and prepare for the demands of a computer-based examination.

The programme also offers an alternative pathway for candidates seeking to improve their results, return to education after an interruption or secure the qualifications required for tertiary admission.

By extending educational support beyond the payment of examination fees, the free GCE revision classes seek to ensure that candidates receive both access and the preparation required to benefit from that access.

EDUCATION

GOY Back-to-School Initiative Reaches Over 20,000 Pupils in Eti-Osa

More than 20,000 pupils in primary and secondary schools across Eti-Osa Constituency II have received free school bags and exercise books through Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's Back-to-School Support Initiative, a biannual programme introduced in 2012 to ease the cost of basic learning materials for families.

The programme provides new school bags and exercise books to children ahead of school resumption, helping parents meet essential education expenses and ensuring that pupils return to class with the materials needed to participate in learning.

For Praise, a pupil at Obalende Primary School, receiving a new bag meant more than obtaining a school item; it restored confidence.

“I used to feel sad going to school with torn bags,” she said. “Now, I'm so proud of it, and I'm grateful to Hon. Yishawu.”

Yishawu said the intervention was informed by the financial pressure that parents often face at the beginning of a school term.

“As a parent, I understand the stress that comes with the back-to-school period,” he said. “Children are eager to return to class, but the financial demands can be overwhelming. We're here to ease that burden and ensure every child in Eti-Osa II walks into school ready and confident.”

The support is particularly significant for households with several school-age children, where simultaneous expenditure on bags, books and other requirements can strain already limited incomes.

Mrs Nafiu, a mother of three, said the biannual distribution eased an expense that had repeatedly caused anxiety at resumption periods.

“Every resumption period used to bring intense anxiety because buying new school bags and exercise books for three children simultaneously was almost impossible with our income,” she said. “Receiving these materials through Hon. Yishawu's programme took a huge burden off my shoulders.”

The programme forms part of a wider education-support record that includes assistance with JAMB registration, examination preparation and school transportation. By covering basic supplies, it seeks to reduce the everyday material obstacles that can affect attendance, dignity and academic engagement among children in Eti-Osa 02.

EDUCATION

GOY Free Bus and Boat Scheme Records 600,000 Student Trips

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's free school bus and boat scheme has recorded more than 600,000 student trips across Eti-Osa Constituency II over 13 years, providing schoolchildren with daily transport on major road and water routes at no cost to their families.

The initiative operates morning and afternoon routes on weekdays, connecting students to schools through areas including Military Hospital, Keffi, MOPOL 2, Dodan Barracks, Obalende Bus Stop, Osborne, Falomo and Tarkwa Bay.

It was established to remove transportation costs and distance as barriers to school attendance, particularly for families facing recurring expenses associated with commuting to school.

Mrs Lawal, a parent with three children who use the service, said the programme had reduced a substantial financial burden on her household. She said her first child used the free transport throughout secondary school and later benefited from a free JAMB form.

“Transport fares were taking up a huge part of my family's income just to send my three kids to school every morning,” she said. “GOY took that burden off me with my first child, and my other two kids are enjoying it as well. This is a massive relief for my family, especially because I know they will get to school safely."

The service requires no registration or paperwork. Students can use the buses or boats provided they attend a school within Eti-Osa Constituency II.

For families living near the waterways, the boat service provides an alternative to road transport; for others, the buses reduce the cost and uncertainty of daily travel. The combined service is intended to ensure that children can reach school more consistently and safely.

"This is something we will continue to do for as long as we are in office," Yishawu said.

The 600,000-trip milestone illustrates the scale of a sustained intervention that affects households every school day, reducing expenditure, supporting attendance and linking schoolchildren across land and water communities to educational opportunity.

GOY Facilitates Repainting of Classrooms in 18 Secondary Schools in Eti-Osa Constituency 02

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has facilitated the repainting and revitalisation of 18 secondary-school buildings across Eti-Osa Constituency II, improving the physical learning environment for students and reinforcing a culture of maintenance in public schools.

The project was carried out in August 2025 in collaboration with, and approval of the Education District III Board. It focused on restoring the visual condition of school buildings and creating more welcoming spaces for teaching and learning.

A parent said the repainting had visibly transformed schools whose aging appearance had long been a concern to pupils and families.

“GOY has done a great job by repainting all the schools in this district,” the parent said. “This has given new life to these buildings that represent so much to us—especially the children. The old paint needed a change, and we're glad someone stepped in."

Yishawu said the intervention reflected a commitment to giving children the kind of environment that supports pride, confidence and educational aspiration.

"A big part of bringing this project to life is the vision of giving our children the best—and only the best," he said.

The school-repainting project complements the representative's wider education agenda, which includes free examination forms, revision classes, learning materials, school transportation and technology-skills programmes. Publicly reported initiatives have also included free JAMB forms and digital-skills training targeted at young people in Eti-Osa II.

While the project focuses on building appearance and upkeep, its intended effect is broader: students learn in cleaner, brighter and more dignified settings, while communities are encouraged to view the maintenance of educational infrastructure as part of investment in their children's future.

GOY Supports Lagos Central Debate Competition, Rewards Winners With Laptops

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, the Lagos State House of Assembly member representing Eti-Osa Constituency II, supported the October 2024 Lagos Central Inter-Secondary School Debate Competition by providing brand-new laptops for winners and outstanding participants and mobile tablets for runners-up, extending his long-running investment in educational opportunity, youth confidence and academic advancement.

The contest, organised by Abdulmumin Edidi of the Nigerian Youth Parliament, brought together selected junior and senior secondary school students from across Lagos Central for a two-category competition designed to test public speaking, reasoning, research and rebuttal skills.

Held at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi, the event provided students with a modern and conducive setting in which to present arguments, respond to competing views and engage an audience of education stakeholders, public officials and corporate leaders.

Former Lagos State First Lady Dame Abimbola Fashola attended the programme alongside a Deputy Commander representing the National Drug Law Enforcement Agency's Zone H Lagos Command; representatives of the Lagos State Ministry of Basic and Secondary Education and the Tutor-General/Permanent Secretary, Education District 3; the author of Morning Star; and chief executives of companies.

Yishawu also sponsored the prizes, ensuring that students who distinguished themselves in the junior and senior categories received tools intended to support their continuing education and digital learning.

The intervention reflects Yishawu's broader education and youth-development agenda in Eti-Osa II, where he has also supported free JAMB-form distribution and digital-skills training for young residents.

Beyond the winners' prizes, the debate created a public platform for young people to build confidence, sharpen critical-thinking skills and demonstrate the potential that structured learning opportunities can unlock.

GOY Digitech Hub Expands Free Digital-Skills Access for Eti-Osa Youths

Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's Eti-Osa II Community Digitech Hub, commissioned in 2023 at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre on Awolowo Road, Ikoyi, continues to provide free access to computers, internet connectivity and technology-focused training for young people in the constituency.

The solar-powered facility contains 50 new laptop computers and internet access intended to support uninterrupted learning. It was established under Yishawu's “Digital Skills Revolution” agenda after consultations with community leaders and other stakeholders identified the need for a central technology-learning space for youth.

The hub has partnered with SeedBuilders, SODBRIDGE Academy, Agility Africa, INGRYD Academy, EduPoint and the Creative Industries Initiative for Africa to deliver specialised training in digital marketing, data analytics, graphic design, web development, ICT fundamentals, full-stack development and UI/UX design.

The training areas are designed to give participants practical skills for technology-driven employment, entrepreneurship and innovation in a changing digital economy. Recent programming associated with Yishawu's foundation reported digital-skills training for more than 150 young Eti-Osa residents to improve their employability.

Nonso, a UI/UX-design participant, said the hub gave him a pathway into digital learning that had previously seemed inaccessible because he could not afford a laptop.

“I had always wanted to learn UI/UX design, but I couldn't afford a laptop, which I need to practice while being taught,” he said. “However, I registered immediately I saw the opportunity through GOY. That decision changed the trajectory of my life positively.”

The hub was completed within two months and is open without charge to youths in the constituency, as well as to students and training partners participating in its programmes.

“I am very pleased that we brought this project to life,” Yishawu said. “It continues to serve as a platform to engage our youths and encourage them to pursue credible careers in technology.”

By removing cost barriers to devices, connectivity and structured training, the Digitech Hub offers a practical pathway for young residents to gain marketable skills, pursue technology careers and participate more fully in the digital economy.

GOY Delivers Solar-Powered ICT Centres, 60 Computers to Three Eti-Osa II Schools

Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has delivered three solar-powered ICT centres, each equipped with 20 new desktop computers, to Osborne 1 School Complex, Osborne 2 School Complex and Government College Victoria Island, expanding access to practical digital learning for hundreds of secondary-school students in Eti-Osa Constituency II.

The installations, completed over six months, provide a total of 60 computers and are powered by solar energy to ensure that computer-based lessons can continue despite electricity interruptions.

The project predates the establishment of the Eti-Osa II Community Digitech Hub and forms part of Yishawu's broader effort to prepare young residents for a technology-driven economy through access to devices, internet-enabled learning and practical ICT experience.

"We are committed to getting our children ready for the future," Yishawu said. "Digital and ICT skills are no longer optional—they are essential. With the right guidance, our students can develop an interest in these fields and ultimately build sustainable careers."

Teachers at the beneficiary schools said the facilities would improve computer-based learning by enabling students to move beyond theory and acquire practical digital skills within the school environment.

Mr Teslim, an ICT teacher at one of the schools, said the solar-powered system would make the laboratories more useful for daily teaching.

"Hon. Yishawu is very forward-thinking," he said. "Apart from the ICT centre being very timely, the solar technology means that we can use this regularly for our classes without worrying about power outages. It's a game-changer."

The school-based ICT centres complement other technology-focused interventions associated with Yishawu, including the constituency Digitech Hub and training programmes in areas such as web development, data analytics, graphic design and UI/UX design.

- Organises Free Health Screening in Eti-osa

A two-day free health screening exercise on hypertension, diabetes, eyes, cervical, breast and HIV/AIDS has been organised for the people of Ikoyi, Obalende and their environs by Honourable Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02 in the Lagos House of Assembly.

He anchored his decision to facilitate the exercise on his belief that a nation can only thrive based on the level of health of its citizens, since only those who have health have the capacity to create wealth.

The exercise, he said, is a part of his people-oriented agenda, anchored on his slogan - "People first". He affirmed his readiness to commit as much resources he can harness to ensure that the people of his constituency do not see good health as a luxury but a necessity and a civil right which the people have a right to. He promised to make the exercise a continuous one.

Hon. Yishawu maintained that "... the most important asset that every nation has is its human resources and stressed that healthy people are wealthy people". To him, "If you don't ensure good health of your people, you are on the verge of losing great people that are supposed to be beneficial to the nation". He said he decided to take on health to complement several things he had done about education, because health is wealth.

GOY PROVIDES FREE CERVICAL CANCER SCREENING & VACCINES

More than 500 women have benefitted from a free medical cancer screening in Lagos. Lawmaker representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02 at the Lagos state house of Assembly, Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu said the program was created for women in his constituency between the ages of 18 and 40 residing in Obalende and Ikoyi. The free screening exercise also covered free vaccination for 100 women.

Speaking to newsmen, Hon. Yishawu explained why he had gone the extra mile to include the free vaccination, in spite of how expensive the vaccination package is. "We've seen people carry out screening exercises severally, where the women are just told they either have the likelihood of having the disease or they don't. Instead we thought it necessary to vaccinate because with that, they are protected for life against the disease. In fact, girl children should also be given the vaccines".

Dr. Olajumoke Oyenuga, the specialist in charge of the exercise commended the program explaining that these same women have the extra opportunity to be attended to for further management and treatment with cryotherapy, for those that have the pre-cancer lesion. "We have also educated them extensively to know risk factors and behaviors that increase the chances of cervical cancer such as smoking".

One of the beneficiaries, Mrs. Ada Okeke expressed gratitude, saying that she had not only gotten the first vaccination, but had been given dates with an appointment card to come back for the two other vaccinations. She described Yishawu as a politician who delivers beyond his promises.

Mrs. Bridget Yakubu another beneficiary prayed for God to continually bless the Honourable "because this is not easy for a person to execute single handedly, as I personally know the cost for this procedures that have been made totally free for us" she said.

GOY Free Dental Programme Tops 6,000 Beneficiaries, Delivers 12,000 Procedures

More than 6,000 residents of Eti-Osa Constituency II have received over 12,000 free dental procedures through the GOY Free Dental Healthcare Programme, which completed its 12th edition in May 2026 and has provided treatments that beneficiaries estimate would cost an average of ₦30,000 per procedure.

The annual outreach, sustained by Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, provides access to certified dental professionals and services including scaling and polishing, fillings, dentures, crowns, surgical extractions root-canal therapy and braces for children.

For Mr Fidelis, one of the beneficiaries at the most recent edition, the programme made a procedure previously beyond his financial means possible. He said he learned about the outreach through a constituency billboard and visited the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre to make enquiries after enduring a persistent toothache for months.

“[The toothache] needed root canal therapy, but this was beyond what I could afford,” he said, adding that he received the procedure free of charge and experienced immediate relief.

The programme has become one of Yishawu's recurring health interventions in Eti-Osa II, using the Y-Arena in Ikoyi to bring dental treatment closer to residents who may otherwise delay care because of cost. Earlier editions offered procedures including extraction, filling, scaling and polishing, surgical treatment and denture fitting.

For elderly beneficiaries such as Mrs Omotayo, the outreach has addressed both oral health and social confidence. She said losing her teeth affected her ability to eat and made her self-conscious when speaking in public.

“Getting free dentures fitted during the outreach is a gift I can never thank Hon. Yishawu enough for,” she said.

The programme's impact, therefore, extends beyond treatment numbers: it reduces household health expenditure, relieves pain, restores everyday functioning and gives residents who need specialised dental care an opportunity to obtain it without charge.

GOY Eye-Care Programme Reaches 8,000 Residents, Funds More Than 200 Cataract Surgeries

Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's Free Eye Healthcare Programme has reached more than 8,000 residents of Eti-Osa Constituency II and provided over 200 free cataract surgeries, with the 11th edition in February 2026 expanding the initiative to include pterygium, glaucoma and iris-claw surgeries.

The programme has also provided specialised eyeglasses—including high-focus and disc lenses—to more than 500 beneficiaries, while 42 residents have received other specialised eye surgeries. The cataract procedures typically cost about ₦220,000, while the other specialised surgeries can cost more than ₦170,000, according to the programme account.

For Mrs Okeke, a senior resident whose cataracts had severely impaired her sight, the surgery restored both mobility and the ability to continue working.

“My vision had deteriorated so badly due to cataracts that I could no longer walk around my neighbourhood safely or continue with my side job,” she said. “I thought I might remain blind because my family couldn't raise the funds for surgery. However, this programme completely changed my life through the free surgery.”

The outreach initially concentrated on routine services such as visual-acuity tests, eye-pressure checks, refraction, blood-pressure screening, consultations and the distribution of eyeglasses. Its expansion into advanced surgical care has increased the range of conditions that can be addressed for residents, particularly older people.

Cataract surgery and eyeglass distribution are delivered annually, while other specialised procedures are conducted twice yearly through a partnership with AIONS Vision and Military Hospital Limited, Ikoyi.

Another beneficiary, Madam Jaiye, said specialised prescription glasses ended her persistent difficulty with reading, work and headaches. She praised the service after receiving custom glasses at no cost.

The programme represents a sustained effort to reduce the financial barrier to vision care, prevent avoidable sight loss and improve the independence and daily wellbeing of vulnerable residents in Eti-Osa II. Yishawu's earlier public materials also identify eye examinations, cataract surgery and eyeglass provision as core elements of his constituency health interventions.

GOY Therapy Outreach Supports More Than 65 Families Living With Neuro-developmental Disorders

More than 65 families living with neuro-developmental disorders have received free therapy sessions, specialist consultations and financial assistance through an outreach supported by Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu in partnership with Cradle Lounge Special Needs Initiative and Pure Souls Learning Foundation.

The outreach provides participating families with access to licensed psychologists and psychiatrists, while financial support is intended to ease some of the high and continuing costs associated with care for children and other persons with neuro-developmental conditions.

Mrs Daramola, a parent who participated in the programme, said the intervention provided emotional relief as well as professional support.

“Caring for a child with a neurodevelopmental condition in an environment where people don't understand it is exhausting both financially and emotionally,” she said. “Having licensed psychiatrists and psychologists evaluate my child for free, while receiving financial support from Hon. Yishawu, brought tears to my eyes. For the first time, we felt seen, understood, and truly supported.”

The programme is held periodically. A previous edition took place in 2024. The second edition was a 2-day programme that was held on 2nd and 3rd October 2026. This free outreach had several medical experts on standby to offer therapy, counselling for parents and guardians, and continuing support for people with neurodivergent conditions..

Beyond clinical consultation, the initiative is intended to improve awareness and challenge stigma by encouraging empathy, understanding and acceptance of people with special needs within Eti-Osa II communities.

By taking licensed mental-health and specialist support directly to households that may otherwise be unable to afford it, the programme seeks to reduce both the economic burden and isolation that families commonly experience.

Yishawu Launches 2-Year Free Health Insurance Scheme for 5,000 Residents of Eti-Osa

Lagos State House of Assembly member representing Eti-Osa Constituency II, Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, has inaugurated a two-year free health-insurance programme for 5,000 residents of Eti-Osa Constituency 02. Under the auspices of the Ilera Eko Standard Jaara Health Insurance Scheme, it is an intervention programme designed to reduce out-of-pocket medical costs and increase awareness of health-insurance benefits across the constituency.

The programme, organised in partnership with Ilera Eko, is intended to complement the Lagos State Government's health-coverage efforts by encouraging residents to experience the benefits of insurance and continue enrolment after the sponsored two-year period ends. Reports on the launch similarly identified the target as 5,000 Eti-Osa II residents and confirmed that the coverage is being provided under the Ilera Eko Standard Jaara plan.

Yishawu said the intervention was necessary because many residents had yet to enrol in available health-insurance schemes, largely because of limited awareness and the cost of annual premiums.

“The essence of a health insurance programme is to create accessibility and affordability within the healthcare sector so that every Nigerian can have access to healthcare,” he said.

“What we are doing here is to assist government in creating awareness among Lagosians and people of Eti-Osa Constituency about health insurance and its value.

“One of the ways we have chosen to do that is to give them two years of free healthcare insurance. It covers individuals and families, including children.”

The lawmaker said requests from constituents who could not afford consultation charges, hospital bills and other medical expenses prompted the programme. He said insurance coverage would encourage more residents to seek care promptly rather than postpone treatment because they could not pay at the point of service.

“Some people don't even want to go to our health centres because they cannot pay for consultations,” Yishawu said. “But with this insurance, they will go there. In the process, things can be caught early, and it improves the wellbeing of our constituents.”

Registration was conducted over four days to minimise time away from work, while social media, flyers, SMS messages and community networks were used to notify and mobilise residents. The enrolment exercise was to continue until the 5,000-person target was reached.

The Standard Jaara package provides access to a range of covered services, including general consultations, treatment for common illnesses, specialist consultations, laboratory and diagnostic services, hospital admission, emergency care, maternal and child health services and chronic-disease management.

Mrs Folashade Gbadeyanka, one of the beneficiaries, said the sponsorship would relieve the pressure that medical costs place on families. She noted that her family had previously benefited from one of Yishawu's health interventions, including an eye-surgery programme received by her mother.

She said the two-year cover would give her family greater peace of mind because they could seek healthcare without the same immediate worry about treatment costs.

The intervention adds a health-insurance component to Yishawu's broader constituency healthcare record, which has included free dental care and eye-care outreaches. It is particularly significant because it shifts support from one-off medical interventions toward continuous access to a defined package of health services for two years.

Under the Ilera Eko Standard Jaara structure, residents ordinarily pay annual premiums of ₦15,000 for an individual plan, ₦55,000 for a family of four and ₦80,000 for a family of six. By absorbing this cost for selected residents, the constituency programme can provide substantial financial protection for households that would otherwise struggle to pay premiums or meet healthcare bills directly.

HEALTH

Why We Are Providing Free Health Insurance for Residents of Eti-Osa,

By Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu

Health is one of the clearest tests of whether public service has meaning in the everyday life of the citizen. He may not immediately understand a motion on the floor of the House. He may not follow every debate on policy, budgetary allocation or public finance, but understands the difference between being able to take a sick child to hospital and having to postpone treatment. He understands the fear that comes with an unexpected diagnosis and the quiet pain of watching a manageable medical condition worsen because timely medical attention is beyond reach.

I believe access to healthcare should be available to everyone at an affordable cost, irrespective of class. I understand the anxiety of having to choose between a visit to the hospital and other pressing needs for the vulnerable, which is why I have, over the years, championed different programmes and initiatives to improve health conditions and outcomes for everyone, especially the vulnerable members of our society.

For our people in Eti-Osa Constituency 02, those programmes include free annual medical check-ups, breast and cervical cancer screening with vaccinations, dental care and surgery, as well as eye examinations with cataract surgery and eyeglasses provided where needed. These programmes have run consistently every year over the past decade.

On the floor of the Lagos State House of Assembly, I have proposed different initiatives to widen access to healthcare for Lagosians. I campaigned for a health insurance scheme and vigorously supported it upon adoption by the Lagos State Ministry of Health. I also moved a motion for free rotavirus vaccines for young children to protect them against diarrhoea. I am glad that, following that motion and the House of Assembly's resolution, the initiative was adopted as Lagos State Government policy, and thousands of young children have since benefited from it. The Lagos Patient Bill of Rights, which I proposed, is currently under consideration by the House.

I believe that representation must be felt in the everyday lives of the people. While our debates, motions, and decisions in the House matter because that is how we get to address the fundamental issues, I believe that ultimately, these must connect with the needs of the people we represent.

The question has always been: what solutions can I proffer that can directly improve people's lives and make their burden lighter? That inspired the two-year free health-insurance programme for the residents of Eti-Osa Constituency 02. For me, reaching the programme's initial target of 5,000 residents is not simply hitting an enrolment figure; it represents people whose health and peace of mind deserve our attention. We are grateful for the privilege and opportunity we have to provide that support.

This initiative grows out of our long-term commitment to accessible healthcare for the people. Our desire is to create a more dependable pathway through which people can seek care when they need it. This programme offers a practical starting point by removing the cost of enrolment for beneficiaries, while also helping them to become familiar with a system that many have not used or do not fully understand, simultaneously addressing the twin issues of affordability and awareness.

For those who have enrolled in the scheme, the two-year coverage commenced on 10th October. Beneficiaries can now access a defined range of services, including general and specialist consultations, medical tests, dental and eye care, minor surgeries and other covered treatments. Maternity benefits include antenatal care, drugs, scans and delivery services, alongside 28 days of care for newborns, subject to the package's terms and limits.

We hope that with enrolment in the scheme, families will have greater confidence to seek care. A mother with a sick child needs more than reassuring words. A pregnant woman worried about the cost of delivery needs more than promises. An elderly resident who cannot afford treatment needs a practical route to care. I want parents to focus on getting their children treated rather than thinking about other things. I want that pregnant woman to approach childbirth with less anxiety. I want that elderly resident in our constituency to seek medical attention without feeling that every request for help places an unbearable burden on the family. If our work helps a mother obtain care, an elderly resident receive treatment with dignity, or a family face a difficult moment with greater reassurance, then we have succeeded in giving representation its proper meaning.

The Eti-Osa I want to help build is a community where residents have greater opportunities to live well. I want children to learn and thrive. I want young people to acquire useful skills and pursue meaningful livelihoods. I want traders, artisans and working families to have a stronger foundation for the future they are trying to build. Health belongs at the centre of that vision.

Our healthcare interventions sit alongside education support, skills acquisition and ICT initiatives as part of a broader commitment to residents' wellbeing and opportunities. I want our residents to feel supported, not forgotten. I want families to have more room to hope and less reason to fear. Ultimately, the future I seek for Eti-Osa is one not only measured by projects completed or programmes announced, but by the difference those efforts make in people's lives directly.

My appeal to residents is simple: if you have enrolled, make use of your health-insurance cover when it takes effect. Familiarise yourself with the services available, know your designated healthcare provider, and seek care promptly when you need it. If you need information about enrolment or how to use the scheme, please contact our constituency office. Let us work together to make good health a shared priority in every household in Eti-Osa. I remain committed to making wellbeing a central part of our shared future. Ilera l'oro – health is wealth.

GOY-Facilitated Boreholes Rehabilitation Expands Clean-Water Access Across Eti-Osa II

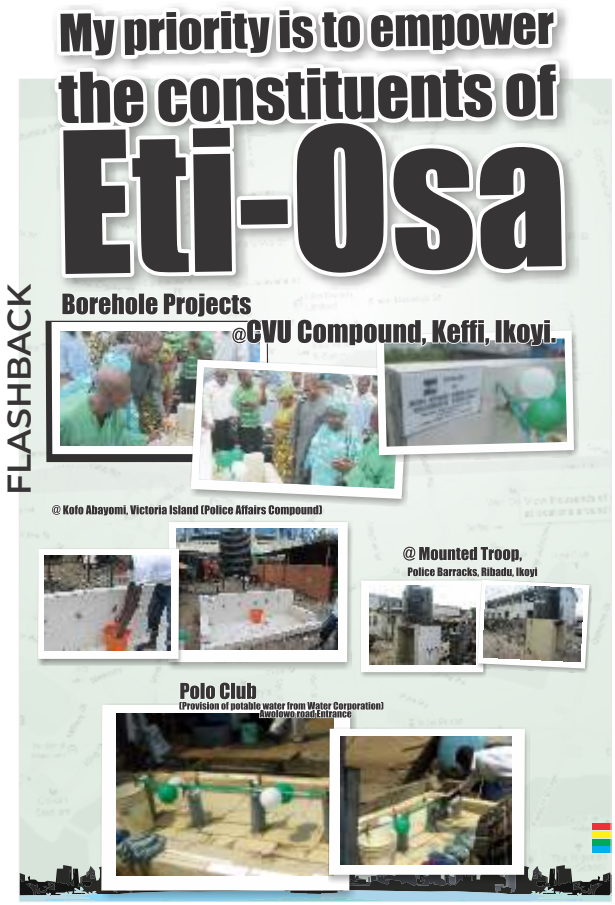

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has facilitated the rehabilitation and upgrading of borehole systems across several barracks and neighbourhoods in Eti-Osa Constituency II, improving residents' access to clean and reliable water and reducing dependence on distant sources and commercial water vendors.

Communities covered by the intervention include Warders Barracks, MOPOL 2, Mounted Troop, Ijeh Barracks, Police Affairs Barracks, Bar Beach Police Barracks, Eko Akete Close, Women Police Barracks, MOPOL 24, Mammy Market and Obalende Police Barracks.

The project has provided practical daily relief for households that previously spent long hours searching for water. Mr Fash, a resident, said his children once had to wake as early as 4 a.m. to collect clean water for basic domestic use.

He said the borehole rehabilitation had reduced the time, financial cost and stress that water collection imposed on his family.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The intervention combines repairs and upgrades with a stated emphasis on maintenance and sustainability, including proper management of existing water infrastructure and exploration of new capacity to meet rising community demand.

"Clean water is a basic human need,"

Yishawu said. "Considering the realities we face; we must provide this for all. We remain committed to working tirelessly until this goal is fully achieved."

For thousands of residents across the affected communities and security barracks, the restoration of boreholes has implications for household hygiene, health, daily productivity and family spending, while easing a basic-service burden that falls heavily on residents when water infrastructure fails.

GOY Delivers Free Transformers to Boost Power Supply, Businesses in Obalende & Other Communities

As he has done for other communities within the constituency over the last 15 years, Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has delivered and installed high-capacity transformers in Obalende at no cost to residents, restoring electricity infrastructure for households, traders and small businesses affected by prolonged power disruptions.

The intervention is expected to improve energy stability across residential and commercial areas of the community, where power-equipment failures can force residents to contribute substantial sums for replacement and leave businesses vulnerable to operational losses.

Madam Kaybee, a frozen-food vendor, said the transformer saved her business after weeks of power failure caused food spoilage and daily financial losses.

“Before Hon. Yishawu stepped in with the new transformer, our area had been in total darkness for weeks, and I was losing thousands of naira every day to spoiled foods,” she said. “When the new transformer was delivered and installed, I was the happiest person. My business is back and better.”

The restored power supply supports local artisans, traders, shopkeepers and other business owners whose earnings depend on consistent electricity, while improved street lighting is expected to enhance visibility and safety at night.

Bidemi, a long-term resident, said the return of electricity also improved family life, particularly during periods of intense heat.

“Living without electricity in this heat was unbearable for our children and elderly parents,” she said. “Now that the transformer is here, I can sleep better.”

By absorbing the cost of procuring and installing the transformers, the project reduces a financial obligation commonly passed on to households and businesses while addressing an infrastructure problem with direct effects on economic activity, food preservation, security and wellbeing.

GOY-Facilitated Security Gates Continue to Serve Obalende and other Communities

Security gates installed across key streets and residential corridors in Obalende through an intervention facilitated by Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu continue to provide access control and strengthen neighbourhood safety infrastructure five years after their installation.

The initiative was introduced as part of a wider safety agenda intended to protect residents, local businesses and property while improving the security architecture of the community.

Residents and business owners in the affected streets say the gates have improved control over movement into residential areas, helped deter criminal activity and given them greater confidence at night.

“As part of my promise to the Obalende community and Eti-Osa II Constituency at large, security remains top of our agenda,” Yishawu said. “We will continue working with relevant stakeholders to strengthen our security architecture.”

The project was fully funded and “Before these security gates were installed, store owners and residents along our street lived in constant fear of crime,” he said. “I feel more comfortable with the security gates installed by Hon. Yishawu.”

The continuing use of the gates

GOY Facilitates Road Rehabilitation and Solar Lights Installation Across Eti-Osa 02

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has facilitated road rehabilitation and the installation of solar-powered street lights across Eti-Osa Constituency 02, improving travel, night-time visibility, community safety and commercial activity in communities including Obalende Road, Keffi Road, Eko Akete Close off St. Gregory's Road, Obalende Market, Ijeh Barracks, Obalende Police Barracks, DSS Quarters, Alagbon and Mounted Troops.

The projects have benefited motorists, traders, commuters, residents and personnel in security barracks by addressing potholes, difficult road conditions, seasonal flooding and poorly lit public spaces.

Babatunde, a commercial driver and Keffi Road resident, said the rehabilitation had reduced the daily strain and cost associated with travelling on damaged roads.

“Driving through Keffi Road wasn't a smooth experience,” he said. “Since Hon. Yishawu stepped in to fully rehabilitate these roads, our commutes are smooth, fast, and safe.”

The improved roads are expected to lower vehicle-maintenance costs, reduce journey times and make it easier for customers, traders and service providers to reach commercial corridors.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

At the same time, the deployment of solar-powered street lights in markets, residential areas and security locations has extended night-time visibility without relying solely on grid electricity. The lighting is intended to improve security, discourage petty crime and enable traders to operate for longer periods.

Mrs Ojeh, a trader at Obalende Market, said the street-light project allowed traders to stay open beyond dark.

“Once darkness fell, many of us had to pack up even though many people prefer to shop at that time when they are back from work,” she said. “The installation of bright, solar-powered street lights by Hon. Yishawu turned our market area into a bright space at night.”

The road and lighting interventions illustrate how neighbourhood infrastructure can produce interconnected benefits—safer movement, lower transport costs, better market activity, increased security and more liveable public spaces.

place where members come together after a long day to share ideas, unwind and discuss issues affecting our neighbourhood," he said. "This donation brings a new energy to our space, and I know it's about promoting community."

The donations form part of Yishawu's continuing visits and engagement with community groups, which provide an avenue for him to interact directly with residents and gain first-hand understanding of local concerns.

By equipping the gathering spaces without cost to the clubs, the initiative improves their facilities while leaving members free from the financial burden of purchasing equipment collectively.

Jelili, another club member, said the gesture reinforced Yishawu's reputation for maintaining contact with people beyond election periods.

"Most politicians only visit social clubs during election seasons, but GOY has always been a constant presence among us," he said. "It's a small gesture with a massive emotional impact because it makes us feel remembered."

The programme highlights the role of social clubs and community centres as grassroots institutions for fellowship, informal information-sharing and neighbourhood cohesion.

GOY Fumigation Exercise Targets Health Risks Across Eti-Osa Constituency 02

Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's free community fumigation exercise is supporting cleaner and safer residential environments across Eti-Osa Constituency II by targeting pests, harmful microorganisms, allergens and mould associated with poor sanitation.

The programme is delivered as a preventive public-health and environmental-hygiene intervention, with residents participating in efforts to maintain cleaner neighbourhoods.

Fumigation efforts are aimed at reducing the presence of disease-carrying pests while improving household and community sanitation. The intervention also supports food safety and reduces exposure to allergens and mould in affected environments.

Residents say the initiative has helped strengthen the culture of sanitation and collective responsibility across communities, in addition to providing direct pest-control benefits.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The exercise reflects an approach to constituency development that treats public health as more than clinical care, recognising that safer living conditions, cleaner surroundings and prevention of environmental risks are central to residents' wellbeing.

GOY Facilitates PPP Solution to protracted Water Supply Crisis in Dolphin Estate

For years, residents of Dolphin Estate (Duplex) endured the difficult reality of life without reliable access to public water.

In response to appeals from community leaders, Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa Constituency II in the Lagos State House of Assembly, took decisive steps to address the problem. Rather than treating the issue as a routine request for government intervention, Engr. Yishawu facilitated an innovative Public-Private Partnership (PPP) arrangement designed to make the existing public water infrastructure functional for Dolphin, put in place a sustainable model and reduce the financial pressure on the government. He engaged directly with the Lagos State Water Corporation and helped coordinate the process through which the community secured access to public water.

The project is now awaiting reticulation—the final stage involving the installation and connection of underground distribution pipes, fittings and valves that will convey water from the main supply line directly into individual homes and properties.

The Dolphin intervention demonstrates Engr. Yishawu's approach to representation: responding to immediate community needs while creating practical and sustainable solutions that can be replicated elsewhere.

The water challenge was not merely one of infrastructure. It was also a question of funding, maintenance and long-term service delivery. Recognising this, Engr. Yishawu advanced the PPP model as a workable alternative through which private-sector partners can work with Lagos State Water Corporation in expanding access to public water, sharing the cost of infrastructure delivery and helping reduce the burden that would otherwise rest entirely on government.

Building on the Dolphin arrangement, Engr. Yishawu has taken steps to give the PPP model a broader institutional and legislative foundation. He has a proposal to encourage structured collaboration between the State Water corporation and credible private-sector partners. The proposal is expected to support wider implementation of water-infrastructure partnerships across communities in Lagos State.

The initiative is intended to ensure that access to public water does not depend solely on limited public funding, but can be strengthened through accountable partnerships that mobilise additional investment, technical capacity and service-delivery support.

GOY-Facilitated Fire Engine Strengthens Emergency Response in Dolphin, Parkview

Donation of Fire Engine Truck to Dolphin Estate, Ijeh Highrise, and its Environs

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has facilitated the donation of a fully equipped fire engine truck to serve Dolphin Estate, Parkview Estate and surrounding communities, strengthening local emergency preparedness and improving access to rapid firefighting support for thousands of households.

The fire engine was delivered with hoses, water tanks, ladders and other essential firefighting equipment and operates alongside officers of the Lagos State Fire Service.

The intervention followed concerns raised during residents' association meetings attended by Yishawu as part of his constituency engagement programme. Residents of Dolphin and Parkview had expressed anxiety that traffic congestion could delay emergency teams travelling from more distant locations during fire outbreaks.

Mrs Olusola, a long-time Dolphin Estate resident, said the truck had addressed a major concern for families and property owners.

“We've always been worried that traffic congestion could delay response teams coming from far when there's a fire outbreak,” she said. “I'm so glad that GOY responded very fast when we brought our need to his attention.”

The fire engine has been active since its installation and is intended to reduce emergency response times in the estates and neighbouring communities.

Its proximity gives residents added reassurance that firefighting assistance is closer at hand, while helping protect residential and commercial property investments from the potentially severe consequences of delayed response to fire incidents.

“I will continue to engage with residents and explore initiatives that improve the wellbeing of our communities,” Yishawu said.

The project demonstrates the practical role of sustained community consultation in identifying and responding to place-specific safety needs.

Yishawu Holds 10th Eti-Osa II Stakeholders' Meeting to Strengthen Community Dialogue

Engr.Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu on September 4, 2025 convened the 10th edition of the Annual Constituency Stakeholders' Meeting for Eti-Osa II, bringing together community leaders, public officials, professional groups and residents to assess constituency issues and shape development priorities.

The meeting was held in line with Lagos State House of Assembly directives and formed part of a statewide constituency-stakeholder engagement process held across the state's 40 constituencies.

Participants included traditional rulers, commissioners, security personnel, community development associations, youth leaders, civil-society organisations, religious bodies, artisans, persons living with disabilities, market representatives, ethnic-community leaders, local government chairmen and ward executives.

The annual forum provides a formal platform for stakeholders to speak openly about progress in the constituency, evaluate ongoing interventions and identify pressing grassroots challenges that may inform future policy advocacy and development projects.

A Community Development Association chairman from Obalende described the meeting as an important accountability mechanism.

“In many places, elected officials disappear after elections, but Hon. Yishawu's stakeholders' meeting has become a true tradition of accountability,” the chairman said. “This is what I like to call participatory governance.”

Over its 10 editions, the meeting has engaged thousands of representatives across Eti-Osa II's wards, according to the programme account, creating recurring opportunities for residents and organised groups to communicate priorities directly to their representative.

“Our stakeholders are the backbone of everything we do,” Yishawu said. “These meetings give us the chance to connect, exchange ideas and build strategies that truly reflect the needs of our people.”

The forum places community dialogue at the centre of Yishawu's representation, connecting grassroots concerns with legislative engagement, constituency projects and decisions on future interventions.

GOY Facilitates Governor Sanwo-Olu's Approval of 50-Year Ikoyi-Obalende Lease Renewal

Lagos State Governor Babajide Sanwo-Olu has approved a 50-year lease renewal for property owners in the Ikoyi-Obalende axis under the Obalende South-West Ikoyi Urban Regeneration Scheme, a decision announced on April 4, 2026 after years of engagement in which Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu played a key representative role.

The approval was disclosed at a stakeholders' meeting at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi and is expected to resolve a long-running tenure uncertainty that had constrained investment, development and planning in Obalende.

Dr Olajide Babatunde, speaking for the governor, said the breakthrough followed extended consultations between government and residents, including a meeting on October 26, 2021 at which Obalende stakeholders led by Yishawu met with the governor.

Under the regeneration arrangement, 213 overcrowded plots are to be reorganised into 100 larger, structured parcels in line with Lagos planning standards. Residential plots will be at least 744 square metres, while commercial plots will be at least 1,160 square metres, replacing the fragmented plots that had averaged about 250 square metres.

The land-pooling model is designed to improve access roads, setbacks, ventilation, emergency response and the overall liveability of the community, while supporting clearer title, better access to finance and stronger confidence among investors and property owners.

A long-time Obalende property owner said the decision brought relief after years of uncertainty.

“For years, our family lived in constant fear and frustration because of the uncertainty and the possibility of losing our homes,” she said. “The news of this 50-year lease renewal is the best news I've heard this year.”

Yishawu described the approval as a transformational intervention that removed a major obstacle to development. He said the lease issue had remained unresolved for more than a decade, creating uncertainty for residents and investors and limiting the area's economic potential.

The regeneration scheme is also expected to support improvements in road networks, drainage, flood control and environmental sanitation. Dr Kolawole Peregrino, General Manager of the Lagos State Property Corporation, commended the development as a significant moment for the community, while Landlords Association Chairman Mrs Ebun Ekemode urged owners to comply fully with the guidelines.

For property owners, the policy clarifies tenure status and may increase the marketability and financeability of affected properties. However, the renewal remains subject to compliance with the state's planning, documentation and other stipulated requirements.

Honourable Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu,
Member Lagos State House of Assembly,
Eti-Osa Constituency II.

Dear Honourable Yishawu,

LETTER OF APPRECIATION FOR YOUR OUTSTANDING SERVICE TO OUR COMMUNITY AND CONSTITUENTS

On behalf of the good people of Obalende Community in Constituency II, we humbly express our profound gratitude and heartfelt appreciation for your exemplary representation and numerous developmental strides and projects in our community.

We particularly acknowledged and commend you for the following projects and infrastructure.

1. Being the backup to Council Projects at the House of Assembly for the rehabilitation of roads and installation of street lights in Obalende environs.
2. Empowerment and Education: Your empowerment programs to all gender and all that fit into it especially teaching the Youths and Artisans is commendable.
3. Distribution of Educational Materials: Jamb forms and scholarships are given to students that desire it. Especially children/students from a low background. Your impact secured their lives for them unknowingly to you; by covering up school and living expenses for them through their education.
4. Health and Welfare: Your free medical outreach to all and sundry shows you care about your constituents.
   - The free eye clinic
   - Free dental clinic
   - Autistic care clinic
   - The health insurance given to your constituent for 2yrs stood still in the lives of your people in Obalende
5. Sanitation and Orderliness: Your collaboration with the Council Chairman and Staffs bore down to the offset of accumulated bills owned by Obalende Community to the PSP Operator, Fadun. This is to a formidable Ikoyi/Obalende LCDA.
6. The most important that happened to Obalende during your tenure as our Assembly Member representing us duly, is the 50yrs Renewal that you fought for alongside with Governor Babajide Sanwo Olu after about 42yrs of Lease Expiration in Obalende. You shall not be forgotten. You "Renew Hope" in our lives.
7. Employment: Too many that needed employment; you honorably linked them directly to where they earn their living today.

Our Dear Honorable, your commitment, accessibility and people oriented leadership is greatly outstanding in your person; thereby giving us a "Renew Hope" in politics, especially in APC, our party.

We pray for your advancement, health and wealth as you continue to serve.

The whole of Obalende assure you of our unflinching support and loyalty.

Thank you, Honorable Yishawu for making our votes count and given us the dividence of Democracy.

Yours faithfully,

Ebun Ekemode (Mrs)

GOY Vocational Training Reaches 500 Women, Provides Start-Up Support in Eti-Osa II

More than 500 women have benefited from Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's free vocational training programme in Eti-Osa Constituency II, with the sixth edition launched in June 2026 to provide practical skills, entrepreneurship support and start-up tools for graduates.

The quarterly programme is implemented in collaboration with the Lagos State Technical and Vocational Education Board and the Federal Ministry of Labour and Employment. Participants receive training in catering, fashion design, soap making, hairdressing, tie and dye, and knitting.

Top-performing graduates receive tools and equipment intended to enable them to begin businesses immediately, while participants are also linked to microcredit and federal business-support pathways.

Madam Khadijah, a graduate of the second edition, said fashion-design training and the start-up equipment she received transformed her from dependence on family support into a business owner and employer.

“Before joining the programme, I was completely dependent on family support and I didn't have much to look forward to,” she said. “Learning fashion design and receiving start-up equipment through Engr. Yishawu's initiative gave me the tools to open my own shop. Today, I earn a steady income, support my children, and even employ two young girls from my neighbourhood.”

The programme is designed to convert training into economic activity by giving outstanding graduates the capacity to enter entrepreneurship or expand existing trades.

The sixth edition adds to an established vocational-training record in the constituency. Yishawu's official platform has previously reported free vocational training for women and training initiatives open to residents across Eti-Osa II.

Interested participants may register for future batches at the Vocational Training Institute, 7 Kefi Street, Ikoyi, Lagos.

GOY Micro-Business & Entrepreneurship Programme Boosts 1,000+ Women-led Businesses, supports 1000+ Artisans Morethan 1,000 women-led micro-businesses in Eti-Osa Constituency II have received equipment, working support and other operational resources through Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's Micro-business and Entrepreneurship Programme, which held its 13th edition in 2025.

The annual programme targets women operating small enterprises, including market traders, seamstresses, caterers, provision-store operators and home-based entrepreneurs. It provides assistance tailored to practical business needs, such as commercial equipment, working capital and other inputs intended to help beneficiaries expand or stabilise their businesses.

Madam Joy, a provision-store owner, said the programme enabled her to scale her operation without taking a loan.

SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

"When Hon. Yishawu provided us with essential commercial equipment and financial support through the women's empowerment drive, it was a huge boost to my provision store business," she said. "I'm so glad that I didn't have to take any loans to scale my business more. I'm so grateful to GOY."

The programme is intended to move small businesses beyond stagnation by helping owners acquire the tools and resources required to improve sales, increase productive capacity and maintain household income.This support was also extended towards artisans, with the programme empowering more than 1,000 artisans in Eti-Osa Constituency II with essential tools of trade, following the sixth edition held in February 2026 at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi.

Beneficiaries received equipment linked directly to their occupations, including vulcanizing kits, mechanical and plumbing equipment, generators, clippers, tyres, life jackets and pruning shears. The initiative was implemented in partnership with the Artisans Association. According to the programme account, the partnership enabled organisers to identify practical needs through direct engagement with association leaders and members.

The programme is designed to help artisans improve productivity, reduce startup costs and earn sustainable income by ensuring they have the equipment needed to practice their trades.

"We appreciate the important work our artisans do for us," Yishawu said. "Without them, our society would not function. This program will go a long way in supporting their businesses and making a real impact in their lives."

GOY-SMEDAN Entrepreneurship Programme Trains Over 100 Eti-Osa Youths

More than 100 youths, including aspiring entrepreneurs, start-up founders and small-business owners in Eti-Osa Constituency II, received training in entrepreneurship and employability during the 2025 GOY ICSS Entrepreneurial Development Programme.

The October programme was delivered through a partnership involving Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu, the Small and Medium Enterprises Development Agency of Nigeria and the Federal Ministry of Labour and Employment.

Participants received practical instruction in entrepreneurship fundamentals, employability skills, business-proposal writing, Business Model Canvas development and pitch-deck preparation—tools designed to help them move from informal ideas to structured and potentially fundable ventures.

One participant said he had previously struggled to understand how to approach funding sources for his business idea but gained confidence after the training to identify relevant funding opportunities and develop a proposal.

The programme is structured to equip participants with the skills required to start, formalise, grow and sustain businesses, while strong performers may gain connections to institutional networks, business-registration pathways and funding channels.

SMEDAN's ICSS framework—meaning Inspire, Create, Start and Scale—provides entrepreneurship education for people at different stages, from those exploring business ideas to operators seeking to grow established ventures. The official framework identifies entrepreneurship fundamentals, employability and business-development support as central components.

Access to finance is not automatic. While ICSS completion can create eligibility for follow-on financing schemes, funding remains subject to the rules, assessment processes and availability under those programmes. The GROW Fund pathway, for example, has offered loans rather than grants, with financing ranges depending on whether an enterprise is at the start-up or scale stage.

By combining business training with access to institutional pathways, the programme seeks to help young residents establish viable enterprises, create jobs and contribute to sustained local economic activity.

GOY Start-Up Support Programme Empowers 1,000 Artisans With Tools of Trade

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's Human Capital Development Skills Graduation Ceremony and Start-Up Support Programme has empowered more than 1,000 artisans in Eti-Osa Constituency II with essential tools of trade, following the sixth edition held in February 2026 at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi.

Beneficiaries received equipment linked directly to their occupations, including vulcanising kits, mechanical and plumbing equipment, generators, clippers, tyres, life jackets and pruning shears.

The programme is designed to help artisans improve productivity, reduce start-up costs and earn sustainable income by ensuring they have the equipment needed to practise their trades.

“We appreciate the important work

SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

For local tradespeople, the equipment can mean the difference between relying on rented or borrowed tools and independently delivering services to customers. The programme therefore supports both the artisans' livelihoods and the everyday services—such as repairs, plumbing, tyre work, grooming and maintenance—on which households and businesses depend.

our artisans do for us," Yishawu said. "Without them, our society would not function. This program will go a long way in supporting their businesses and making a real impact in their lives."

The initiative was implemented in partnership with the Artisans Association. According to the programme account, the partnership enabled organisers to identify practical needs through direct engagement with association leaders and members.

The beneficiaries come from communities across Ikoyi, Obalende, Victoria Island and Tarkwa Bay, reflecting the constituency-wide reach of the support.

Yishawu's Empowerment Programme Complements Tinubu's Poverty Reduction Drive - Ex-Finance Minister, Wale Edun

Former Minister of Finance and Coordinating Minister of the Economy, Mr Wale Edun, has commended Lagos State lawmaker, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu, for his sustained grassroots empowerment initiatives, describing them as efforts that complement President Bola Tinubu's drive to reduce poverty and improve the living standards of Nigerians.

Edun gave the commendation while speaking with journalists at the 14th edition of the GOY Micro-Business Support and Entrepreneurship Programme 2026, organised by Yishawu for constituents in Eti-Osa Constituency II, Lagos State.

The programme empowered more than 300 beneficiaries and supported aged persons and widows, artisans, market women, petty traders, micro-business owners, youths and students.

The former minister said Yishawu's interventions through direct financial assistance and the distribution of business equipment were consistent with the Federal Government's economic reform agenda, which seeks to lift millions of Nigerians out of poverty.

According to him, beyond reforms aimed at stabilising the economy, the Tinubu administration is introducing interventions to cushion the effects of economic challenges on ordinary Nigerians.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

He noted that Yishawu was replicating similar interventions at the constituency level by providing tools, equipment and financial assistance to help small business owners and vulnerable residents improve their livelihoods.

Edun also called on Nigerians, particularly those in positions of authority and influence, to support vulnerable citizens amid the economic transition.

He said, “We must be our brothers' keeper at this time. Whether we are in office or out of office, whether in the public sector or private sector, large-scale or small-scale, we must look to help people through this difficult time.”

He expressed optimism about the country's economic outlook, saying improvements were becoming evident in critical areas and that the Federal Government was working to ensure the benefits of its reforms reached the poor and vulnerable.

In his address, Yishawu said the programme was designed to translate the benefits of democratic governance into practical improvements in the lives of his constituents. He said the programme had, over the years, supported more than 500 artisans, while its micro-business, petty traders and market women empowerment initiatives had reached over 1,500 constituents. He added that more than 1,000 youths had benefited from cash support, tools and other forms of assistance through his youth empowerment initiatives.

On education, Yishawu announced a N100,000 admission grant for each student who secured admission into tertiary institutions through the 2025–2026 edition of his free JAMB initiative. He explained that the grant was intended to support the beneficiaries as they begin their academic journeys. According to him, the initiative has provided more than 12,000 free JAMB forms to students over the years, with additional support for candidates who successfully secured admission.

Yishawu said the introduction of free JAMB revision classes had also helped candidates prepare better for their examinations and improve their performance. He recalled meeting former beneficiaries who had graduated from universities, secured employment and even obtained doctoral degrees, describing their progress as one of the most fulfilling aspects of the initiative.

One of the scholarship beneficiaries, Imioluwanimi Luciana, expressed appreciation for the grant, saying it would ease some of her educational financial burdens and provide a boost to her academic pursuit. An elderly beneficiary, Chief Don-Cyril Ike, also commended the lawmaker for sustaining the initiative, while Mohammed Useni described Yishawu's continued support for senior citizens as commendable.

Political leaders from Eti-Osa Constituency II also praised the lawmaker, describing the empowerment programme as an initiative that transcended partisan politics and deserved emulation. They urged residents to support all candidates of the All Progressives Congress (APC) in the forthcoming elections.

Items distributed included sewing machines, machine tools, 4.5KVA generators, pumping machines, chest freezers, hair dryers, clippers, solar power systems, television sets, grinding machines, weaving machines, gas burners and cylinders, as well as food items and provisions for resale.

Yishawu urged beneficiaries to make productive use of the support provided, reaffirming his commitment to initiatives that promote economic independence, education and improved living conditions across his constituency.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

GOY Support Programme Provides Financial Relief to More Than 2,000 Vulnerable Residents

More than 2,000 vulnerable residents of Eti-Osa Constituency II have received financial assistance through Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's welfare-support programme, with the February 2026 edition extending aid to older persons, widows and petty traders.

The programme is designed to provide timely support to people facing economic hardship and is informed by recommendations from Community Development Associations, local government leaders and religious institutions.

The use of community referrals is intended to help ensure that the assistance reaches residents considered to be most in need.

Beneficiaries receive financial support intended to provide immediate relief for household expenses and business pressures, particularly among people with limited or unstable sources of income.

The programme also reflects a broader approach to community welfare that relies on local institutions to identify priorities and vulnerable households.

By drawing on grassroots recommendations and providing direct assistance, the intervention seeks to strengthen a culture of care and ensure that older residents, widows, petty traders and other vulnerable people are not excluded from constituency-support efforts.

Ounje Eko: GOY Provides Extra Food Discounts for 5,000 Eti-Osa II Residents

More than 5,000 Eti-Osa Constituency II residents received additional food discounts through Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's support for the Lagos State Government's Ounje Eko food-market initiative, reducing the price of staple food items for households facing high living costs.

The intervention added ₦1,000 discount vouchers for each beneficiary on top of the state's subsidised prices, providing a further reduction at checkout.

With total discounts ranging from 25 percent to 50 percent, the programme made items such as a 5kg bag of rice available for as low as ₦5,325, according to the programme account.

The extra vouchers were intended to stretch household purchasing power by reducing the cost of essential food items beyond the base discounts offered through the state initiative.

For families facing persistent pressure from food prices and other household expenses, the support provided immediate, practical relief by enabling beneficiaries to buy staples at lower prices.

The intervention aligns with Yishawu's broader welfare efforts in the constituency, including food-market support and direct assistance for vulnerable residents. His official platform has also reported a separate 50-percent discounted food market for residents during festive periods.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

GOY 50% Food Market Delivers Sallah Relief to Over 2,000 Eti-Osa II Residents

More than 2,000 residents of Eti-Osa Constituency II bought essential food items at half their usual prices through Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's 50 Percent Food Discount Market held at the Y-Arena Multipurpose Centre in Ikoyi during the 2026 Sallah season.

The market offered a range of household staples and proteins, including rice, beans, garri, yam, chicken, beef, smoked catfish, bread, eggs, palm oil, instant noodles and fresh pepper mix.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

GOY 50% Food Market

The intervention was intended to provide targeted relief at a period when festivities and rising living costs increase the pressure on household budgets.

Yishawu attended the programme and engaged directly with beneficiaries as they purchased food items, reinforcing the people-focused approach of the initiative.

For residents, the discounted market enabled them to purchase a wider range of food essentials than they might otherwise afford at prevailing prices.

The programme is one element of Yishawu's recurring food-support efforts. His official platform has reported a food market initiative offering a 50-percent discount to residents during the Christmas and New Year season.

By concentrating food subsidies around festive periods, the intervention seeks to help families celebrate with greater dignity while responding to immediate cost-of-living pressures.

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

GOY Food Distribution Programme Reaches More Than 8,000 Residents Across Eti-Osa II

More than 8,000 Eti-Osa Constituency II residents have received essential food items through Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu's festive food-distribution programme, which provides support to households during the Ileya, Ramadan, Easter and Christmas seasons.

The distribution reaches communities across Ikoyi-Obalende, Iru, Victoria Island and Tarkwa Bay and provides food packs containing staples such as rice in 5kg, 10kg and 25kg bags, beans, garri and cooking oil.

The programme is designed to cushion the effect of economic pressures on families and allow more residents to mark festive periods with adequate household food supplies.

By moving distribution across multiple neighbourhoods, the initiative seeks to ensure that food support reaches residents across the geographical spread of Eti-Osa II rather than being concentrated in a single location.

The recurring distribution forms part of a broader welfare strategy that also includes discounted food markets and support initiatives for vulnerable residents.

For beneficiary households, the value of the intervention lies in immediate savings on basic items, lower seasonal spending pressure and the ability to celebrate important religious and cultural occasions with greater security and dignity.

GOY 5-A-Side Tournament

Awards More Than N3m in Prizes to Eti-Osa II Teams

SPORTS DEVELOPMENT

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's 2026 annual 5-a-side football tournament distributed more than ₦3 million in cash prizes to male and female teams, providing grassroots players in Eti-Osa Constituency II with a platform for competition, talent exposure and financial support.

The January tournament was held at the Ikoyi Recreational Centre and was sponsored entirely by Yishawu. It attracted young players, sports enthusiasts and community leaders from across the constituency.

The male champions received ₦1 million, while the first and second runners-up won ₦750,000 and ₦500,000 respectively. In the female category, the winning team received ₦500,000 and the runners-up received ₦350,000.

A representative of Aminat Babes, the female champions, said the tournament gave women footballers a rare opportunity to display their ability and receive material encouragement.

“Grassroots players rarely get real recognition to showcase their talent,” she said. “However, I'm so grateful for the exposure and the prize money from Hon. Yishawu. This has given us all the encouragement we need to keep exploring our talent and career, even as women.”

Beyond prize money, the competition promotes teamwork, discipline, leadership and interaction among young people across Eti-Osa II. It also offers a constructive channel for youth energy through organised sport.

Over the years, the tournament has engaged hundreds of athletes across the constituency's wards. The cash awards can assist players with school expenses, family responsibilities, sporting development or small-business needs, according to the programme account.

The continuing tournament reflects a youth-engagement approach that combines recreation, social cohesion, recognition of talent and direct economic support.

GOY transforms Falomo Under-Bridge into a Multi-functional Sports Centre for Eti-Osa Youths

SPORTS DEVELOPMENT

The sports centre established by Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu beneath Falomo Bridge in Ikoyi in 2019 continues to serve as a recreational and community-engagement hub for young people in Eti-Osa Constituency II, offering a football pitch, lawn-tennis court and seating areas.

The project transformed an underused location into a multifunctional public sporting facility, with an artificial-grass football field and facilities designed to give youths accessible space for training, exercise and social interaction.

The redevelopment also included galvanised-iron protective structures around the bridge, addressing safety concerns for pedestrians and motorists in the area.

A young user of the centre said regular Saturday-morning football practice with teammates had offered opportunities to build skills and pursue advancement in the sport.

The facility has since become a regular meeting point for young people, creating space for community interaction and helping to channel youth interest into organised physical activity.

The project's continued use demonstrates the wider value of accessible public sporting infrastructure: it supports exercise, recreational development, informal talent discovery and community bonding in a densely populated urban environment.

YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

GOY Drug-Abuse Sensitisation Programme Reaches 2,000 Youths in Eti-Osa II

More than 2,000 young people in Eti-Osa Constituency II have been reached through Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu's biennial drug-abuse sensitisation programme, which provides behavioural guidance, public-health education, mentorship and links to rehabilitation resources for at-risk residents.

The latest edition was held on July 28, 2024, bringing together young people, health professionals, counsellors and community stakeholders for conversations about the health, social and legal consequences of substance abuse.

The programme is structured as a preventive intervention, encouraging participants to resist peer pressure, understand the risks of drug dependency and seek support before substance use becomes a more serious problem.

YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

Sunday, a youth participant from a barracks community, said the outreach was important in an environment where young people face daily pressure and exposure to drugs.

“As young people living in urban areas, we face intense peer pressure every day regarding drug use and substance exposure,” he said. “Programs like this should exist to continue to remind youths of how drug habits can destroy their health and future.”

The programme also connects participants who may require further assistance with rehabilitation information and peer-support networks.

“Our youths are the core strength of our community, and we cannot afford to lose them to substance abuse,” Yishawu said. “We must continue to guide, educate, and protect them so they can fulfil their full potential.”

Through repeated community-based engagement, the initiative seeks to promote a drug-free lifestyle and protect young people's health, education, employability and future potential.

YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

GOY Explores Opportunities for Eti-Osa Youths, Visits Migrant Resource Centres

Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu has held strategic discussions with Migrant Resource Centres in Lagos as part of efforts to develop additional skills training, grants and business-support opportunities for young people in Eti-Osa Constituency II.

The visit focused on potential partnerships that could improve young residents' access to information, vocational development, support services and longer-term empowerment pathways.

Migrant Resource Centres provide services that may include information-sharing, legal guidance, vocational support and integration assistance, making them potential partners in community-level youth development.

Yishawu said the discussions built on youth-targeted interventions that have been running in the constituency for as long as 14 years, including business-pitch initiatives, tools-of-trade distribution, digital-skills programmes and vocational training.

“The discussions ended on a positive note, and I am excited to share what we have in store for our youths at the appointed time,” Yishawu said.

The engagement signals an intention to connect Eti-Osa II youths with broader institutional networks and support systems, rather than relying solely on standalone constituency interventions.

Specific new programmes, beneficiary numbers, implementation partners and commencement dates have not yet been announced. The outcome of the discussions will therefore depend on the formal partnerships and initiatives subsequently agreed.

GOY Hosts Residents-Public Leaders Dialogue Series in Eti-Osa Constituency 02

The second edition of the Eti-Osa Constituency 02 Residents and Public Leaders Dialogue Series, convened by Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu, recently held at Osborne Foreshore 2 Estate, Ikoyi, bringing together Senior Government officials, including the Deputy Governor of Lagos State, Dr Obafemi Hamzat; Former Minister of Finance and Coordinating Minister of the Economy, Mr Wale Edun; Senator representing lagos Central, Wasiu Sanni Eshilokun; APC House of Representatives Candidate, Hon. Fuad Atanda-Lawal; the Commissioner for Environment and Water Resources, Mr Tokunbo Wahab; Commissioner for Energy and Mineral Resources, Mr Biodun Ogunleye, and representatives of relevant government ministries and agencies.

In his opening remarks, Engr. Yishawu encouraged residents to speak freely about the challenges confronting their community, assuring them that the dialogue was designed to identify pressing concerns and facilitate meaningful government intervention. Various concerns, ranging from environmental, security, electricity, land administration and planning, especially on the construction of high-rise buildings along the waterfront, alleged encroachment on drainage channels, and land reclamation activities around Ilubirin Estate.

These concerns were addressed by the Deputy Governor, leading other officials for an on-the-spot assessment of some of the sites residents had expressed concerns about. Beyond immediate concerns, residents advocated for a more structured relationship with government agencies, including a joint committee of residents and public officials, designated communication contacts, and clear referral channels for technical follow-ups. They also stressed that such engagements should be held regularly rather than at long intervals. The engagement was the second in the series of dialogue sessions with Residents of Estates and other Communities in the Constituency, with the first held at Osborne Foreshore Estate 1. Other Estates and Communities have been scheduled for the Dialogue Sessions taking place over the next 2 months.

GOY DISTRIBUTES CASH AND FOODSTUFFS TO THE VULNERABLE

The lawmaker representing Eti-Osa constituency 02 in the Lagos State House of Assembly, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu has reached out to thousands of vulnerable and aged people within his constituency with foodstuff and cash.

The lawmaker had commenced distribution of cash vouchers and foodstuff upon announcement of the initial 14 days lockdown to curtail the spread of coronavirus. In the light of the additional 14 days announced by President Muhammadu Buhari, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu decided to continue the distribution of stimulus packages to all barracks within Eti-Osa 02 and people in need.

Acknowledging the efforts by the Lagos State Government, the Lawmaker stated that there was the need for him to extend his support.

Let us make our Democracy Great - GOY CHARGES NIGERIANS

Honourable Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa constituency 02 in the Lagos State House of Assembly, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu has charged Nigerians to make our democracy something that we can be proud of.

In a statement in commemoration of the celebration of Democracy Day on June 12, he submitted, "Democracy thrives on a two-way street, moving from government to the people and from the people back to the government. Let's join hands and make our democracy something we can all be proud of."

The lawmaker urged Lagosians to support the State government through prayers and adherence to rules laid out by the government at these trying times. "This is a testy period for all nations of the world, most especially for our Nation", he said.

Gbolahan Yishawu, particularly singled out Aswaju Bola Ahmed Tinubu as a dogged and adherent Preacher, Teacher and Practitioner of Democracy who prevailed on the listening Government of President Buhari to make June 12th the true Democracy Day of Nigeria.

He congratulated President Muhammadu Buhari and Governor Babajide Sanwo-Olu on this occasion, as well as all his constituents, wishing everyone a happy Democracy Day.

GOY PROVIDES FREE EYE CARE FOR 3,000 CONSTITUENTS

Not less than 3,000 residents of Ikoyi / Obalende / Eti-Osa Constituency 2 will benefit from free eye care sponsored by the lawmaker representing Eti-Osa Constituency 2 in the Lagos State House of Assembly, Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu aka GOY.

The programme, which is holding at Federal Civil Service Club on Awolowo Road started on Wednesday, 29th August 2018 and it will last for one month.

Yishawu revealed in an interview with journalists that the project covers free consultation and eyeglasses, free eye pressure check, free cataract surgery, free blood check amongst others.

The lawmaker stated that this is just one of the healthcare projects and other people-oriented programmes he has been providing for the constituents.

According to him, "We truly hope our people health care because health is wealth. We have done things like this for three or four [illegible] the programme for at least a month so that a lot of people will come and benefit from it.

"We have done dental care, cervical cancer care, so this eye care is just one of it. We feel eye is the window to the soul. A lot of people have vision defects and they don't have the wherewithal to go to the hospital or consult ophthalmologist."

Yishawu explained that the eye care was not concerned because most of the people in the constituency have eye defects, saying that there are over half a million people in the area, but that they are attending to about 3,000 people.

GOY DISTRIBUTES SANITISERS TO CONSTITUENTS

As part of his efforts to curb the spread of Covid-19, a member of the Lagos State House of Assembly, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu representing Eti-Osa constituency 02, has commenced the distribution of sanitisers to his constituents.

About 30,000 sanitisers with leaflets containing information on Covid-19 were distributed in the course of the exercise which commenced in March, 2020.

The exercise tagged "GOY Coronavirus awareness campaign" spanned a period of one month, with the GOY team moving round to give out sanitisers, as dictated in face masks and handgloves.

Yishawu who is the Chairman House Committee on Economic Planning and Budget explained that the idea is to complement the effort of Lagos State government.

"We have done a lot of awareness campaign to inform our people on the need to take preventive measures by washing their hands with soap and the use of hand sanitisers.

YISHAWU LAUNCHES WWW.TELLGOY.COM, TOWARDS A MORE RESPONSIVE REPRESENTATION

Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, a member of the Lagos State House of Assembly, has launched a new portal for the purpose of receiving feedback from constituents on main matters.

Yishawu who is House committee Chairman on Economic Planning and Budget stated that the portal was set up in response to the challenges posed by COVID-19 and the effects it has had on not just the means of livelihood but the way things are done.

Expounding on what motivated him into setting up the portal, the lawmaker said, "January, we took the Eti-Osa Constituency 02 Town Hall meetings, which has in attendance representatives from the various sectors and stakeholder community. At these meetings, constituents get a chance to share their views on projects and policies of government and give us relevant feedback that help to shape policies of government going forward."

"This year however, with the Coronavirus global pandemic, we have had to change the way we do a lot of things and if we are adhere to the preventive guidelines issued by our government, you would agree with me that having a Town Hall meeting of this sort now is almost impossible. This is the reason we decided to create the tellgoy.com portal where our constituents can visit to lay their complaints as well as make suggestions that can influence policies of government."

He explained that these suggestions and/or complaints could include state government projects within the constituency that may have gone on for years without completion or ideas on how to improve services being rendered by the Government.

GOY MOVES MOTION ON DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS OF POLICE AND PRISON BARRACKS IN LAGOS STATE

The Lagos State House of Assembly has called on the President, Dr. Goodluck Jonathan to direct the Federal Ministry of Works, the Nigeria Police and the Nigeria Prisons Service to commence immediate stock-taking and evaluation of the entire Barracks in Lagos State with a view to carrying out comprehensive rehabilitation on same.

This resolution was made in furtherance to a motion moved by your representative in the Assembly, Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu on the awful state of most of the Police and Prison Barracks in Lagos state, occupied by men of Nigeria Police and Prison Service.

Noting that many of these barracks were built over 40 years ago without any meaningful renovation or maintenance in recent time, which has resulted in a deplorable state of facilities such as functional toilets, operational septic tanks, portable water systems, flowing drainage, refuse disposal system amongst others, the house expressed worry that the absence of these amenities constitutes health hazard and serious danger to lives of residents of these barracks and the neighbouring communities.

While expressing its awareness that the maintenance of these Barracks is the responsibility of the Federal Government, the house however took notice of the fact that occupants of these Barracks are Lagos residents and deserve to live with their families in a conducive environment with adequate infrastructure.

HOUSE SUMMONS COMMISSIONER OVER RAINSTORMIN RESPONSE TO GOY'S MOTION

The Lagos State House of Assembly has summoned the state Commissioner for the Environment, Mr. Tunji Bello to explain his ministry's preparedness to combat the menace of heavy downpours in the state.

The motion was moved during the plenary session by Hon. Yishawu Gbolahan under matters of urgent public importance.

Yishawu, representing Eti-Osa Constituency 2, lamented the heavy rainstorm in Lagos on February 13th that affected lives of people and property, saying there was need for an increased awareness on the part of the people to avert injury, loss of lives and damage to property in the future.

GOY'S BILL TO PROHIBIT SMOKING IN PUBLIC PLACES BECOMES LAW

A bill for a law to prohibit smoking in public places and vehicles, sponsored by Honourable Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02 in Lagos State House of Assembly today has been passed into law.

The law forbids all persons from the smoking of tobacco or anything, which contains tobacco, or any other substance in any place designated as No-Smoking Area as specified in the First Schedule of the law being proposed.

The law builds on the Act of the National Assembly "Tobacco Smoking (Control) Act Cap 76 LFN 2004" and prohibits smoking in designated non-smoking areas, smoking in the presence of a child under the age of 15 years in any vehicle or location listed or not listed as a No-Smoking Area.

The law also makes it the duty of any person who occupies or is in charge of the management of a No-Smoking Area to ensure that approved Non-Occupier Smoking signs are displayed on the premises in accordance with the provisions of the Act of the National Assembly and the bill when passed as Law.

By virtue of the law, it shall be the duty of any person who owns or occupies or is in charge of the management of the non-smoking area to cause a person smoking there to stop smoking.

According to Hon. Yishawu who is very well-regarded in the house for his vibrancy and meaningful contributions on the floor, there is a need to control smoking, such that the harmful effects of the habit can be curtailed, and not hinder the healthy development of future generations.

YISHAWU-LED COMMITTEE COMMENDED FOR STERLING WORK DONE ON 2018 BUDGET

A week after the Governor of Lagos State, Mr. Akinwunmi Ambode presented the 2018 Budget proposal tagged "Budget of Progress and Development", Hon. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02 and Chairman, House Committee on Waterfront Infrastructural Development, was named the Chairman of the Ad-hoc committee on Economic Planning and Budget by Rt. Hon. Mudashiru Ajayi Obasa, Speaker of the Lagos state House of Assembly with responsibility for the 2018 Budget.

The 9-man ad-hoc committee swung into action immediately with the Budget defence session by the MDAs commencing on 2nd January, 2018 with all Ministries, Departments and Agencies taking turns to explain, in details, their expenditure in the outgoing budget year and defend their needs and projections for the year under consideration by the committee.

Sessions were characterised by intense debates and inquiry from Committee members, who ensured that the MDAs' representatives were drilled to adequately justify their requests as stated in their budget proposals. The session was concluded on Tuesday, 16th January, after which the report writing process began.

Hon. Yishawu, alongside members of the Ad-hoc Committee scrutinised the findings from the budget defense sessions and budget proposal documents from the MDAs, working many late nights before coming into

GOY CALLS FOR PROTECTION OF CHILDREN

Hon. Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-Osa constituency 02 in the Lagos State Assembly, has condemned the increasing wave of sexual harassment and abuse of children in Nigeria, calling for the protection of women and children.

The United Nations General Assembly had on August 19th, 1982, at its emergency special session on the question of Palestine, decided to commemorate 4th of June every year as the International Day of Innocent Children Victims of Aggression.

The purpose of the day is to acknowledge the pain suffered by children throughout the world who are victims of physical, mental and emotional abuse. The day affirms the UN's commitment to protecting the rights of children. Its work is guided by the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the most rapidly and widely ratified international human rights treaty in history.

when our children are not fully protected from aggression of any and all kinds. This must be of topmost priority for every forward looking society. Our children need to feel safe", he said.

He called on NGOs to join government in its campaign against rape and other related vices.

GOY BAGS YMCA PLATINUM AWARD

Engr. Gbolahan Yishawu, member representing Eti-osa Constituency 02 at the Lagos State House of Assembly, has added yet another feather to his hat as he bagged the annual Platinum award of the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) Lagos Chapter.

The Award was given to him in recognition of his outstanding contribution and dedication to the development of Eti-Osa Constituency 02 and Lagos.

Yishawu expressed gratitude to the YMCA for the award. Such recognition, he said, works to strengthen his resolve to do much more for the good of humanity.

He said he was greatly inspired that the YMCA could consider his modest efforts at contributing to community development, taking time to recognise him for it. A gesture, he described the gesture as a noble one.

GOY RECEIVES AWARD FROM JAMB

"...He is a Nigerian we can identify with"

- Lagos JAMB Coordinator

The Coordinator of the Joint Admissions and Matriculation Board (JAMB) office in Lagos State, Mr. Sunday Aladegbaye, has commended Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, member of the Lagos state house of Assembly representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02 for his immense contribution towards the education of his constituents.

Speaking during a courtesy visit he recently paid to the Legislator along with members of his team, he saluted GOY for the support for the indigent in attaining education and enhancing opportunities for them. He explained that he was at the JAMB CBT Centre on a visit when he noticed a group of students, who appeared to be friends as they clustered together. Upon enquiry, he found out that they were all beneficiaries of the GOY annual Free JAMB forms distribution. He said that led him to find out more about this good Nigerian who would be so selflessly committed to assisting the less privileged in our society get educated. That prompted him to seek out the benefactor to come express appreciation.

"You are a Nigerian we can identify with because you understand the plight of the poor and are passionately bothered about education. You don't have to campaign much, because your work speaks for you", he said. The Coordinator called other leaders to emulate Yishawu's strides, especially in the area of education.

In his response, Yishawu expressed surprise that the officials could have notices his modest contribution, thanking JAMB for the recognition and honour. He commended JAMB for the recent improvement he has noticed in the organisation by JAMB, but he also shared with them tips that can help improve JAMB's practices, particularly in the areas of data capture and stakeholders' engagement.

The high point of the courtesy visit was the presentation of an award to Engr. Yishawu by Mr. Aladegbaye, who encouraged him to keep up the good work and not relent on his efforts.

PROFILE

GBOLAHAN OLUSEGUN YISHAWU

Engr. Gbolahan Olusegun Yishawu, a full-blooded Lagosian, was born on Lagos Island, Lagos State, to the late Alhaji Modiyu Liadi Yishawu, the First Alhaji of Lagos, and the late Alhaja N. A. Yishawu (née Nuru-Oniwo), both Lagos indigenes.

He completed his primary education at A.D.R.A.O. International School, Victoria Island, Lagos. He attended Government College, Lagos, Eric Moore, and completed his O-Level and A-Level education at Greylands International College, Bembridge, Isle of Wight, United Kingdom, in 1985.

That same year, he was admitted to study Engineering at the University of Nigeria, Nsukka, where he graduated with a Bachelor of Engineering degree in 1990.

He completed his National Youth Service at Ogun State Polytechnic, Ojere, Abeokuta—now Moshood Abiola Polytechnic. His experience of lecturing as a National Youth Service Corps member set a career path for GOY in education and training, which encouraged him to pursue further studies. He subsequently obtained the following qualifications: an M.Sc. in Computer Science from the University of Lagos; an M.Sc. in Financial Management from Manchester; a Postgraduate Diploma in Education Administration from the University of Lagos; and a Master of Business Administration from Abubakar Tafawa Balewa University. He also has a Ph.D. in view in Computer Science at the University of Lagos.

Gbolahan Yishawu commenced his professional career as an Electronics Engineer in 1991, immediately after his National Youth Service, working in the Information and Communication Technology industry for five years. He held various positions, including Project Engineer, Ballark Systems Limited, Abeokuta, Ogun State; Branch Engineer, Global Stars Nigeria Limited, Ibadan, Oyo State; Chief Engineer, Midlands Communications Nigeria Limited, Ibadan, Oyo State; and Assistant General Manager, Modelor Computers, a member of the Modulor Group Consortium Limited, Oregun, Lagos State.

During his years in engineering practice, GOY and his team at Modelor Computers blazed the trail in migrating institutions such as Union Bank of Nigeria from the bulky mainframe computers of that era to the fast, robust, and scalable microcomputer systems of today.

While at Modulor Group Consortium Limited, GOY's versatility did not go unnoticed. In 1997, he was deployed to head and pilot other companies and units within the group, including Olive Industries and the Group's marketing affairs. He took up these challenges in his stride and made a success of the assignments, with the group flourishing under his stewardship.

His burning passion for impacting lives and influencing positive development in society led him to rejig his career path towards education. In this pursuit, GOY dedicated the next 11 years of his career to people empowerment through education and training. He has championed Information Technology literacy among youths and adults to bridge the digital divide in the country and, in particular, within his immediate constituency.

His footprints in this regard are visible in the role he played in the establishment and operation of the first Aptech Computer Education Centre in Nigeria at Awolowo Road, Ikoyi, Lagos, in December 1999. He was later involved in bringing Informatics Computer School and Thames Business School of Singapore to Nigeria.

Further to his quest to provide training, knowledge, and skills-development opportunities for the people of his Eti-Osa constituency, he facilitated the establishment and management of the Lagos State University School of Part-Time Studies, Ikoyi and Agege campuses. These university campuses provided job opportunities for thousands of Lagosians through direct employment and complementary services. They also created educational opportunities for working persons and youths to acquire tertiary-level education and realise their dreams of becoming university graduates.

Gbolahan Yishawu served as a Director at Information Technology Institute Limited, operator of Informatics Computer School, Thames Business School, and Lagos State Polytechnic, Jibowu Annex; Executive Director at International Learning Systems Limited, operator of Lagos State University external campuses; and Chief Executive Officer/Managing Director of Information and Learning Systems Limited, an Information Technology service company and education provider, before venturing into politics.

He is a member of the Computer Professionals Registration Council of Nigeria; a Fellow of the Nigerian Society of Engineers; a member of the Council for the Regulation of Engineering in Nigeria; a Fellow of the Nigerian Computer Society; and a member of the Nigerian Institute of Management.

The Yishawu Family (From the First Alhaji to GOY)

Gbolahan Yishawu is from the illustrious family of Alhaji Muhammed Yishawu, the first pilgrim to Mecca from the Lagos Colony, on account of which he was fondly called “The First Alhaji.”

Alhaji Muhammed Yishawu, who resided at 25, Oluwole Street, Lagos, undertook his first pilgrimage to the Holy Lands of Mecca, Arafat, and Medina in 1877.

He returned in 1884, seven years later, during the reign of Oba Dosunmu. The White Cap Chiefs of Lagos were said to have received him on his return.

He took his youngest son, Amida, with him on that first pilgrimage. During their stay in Mecca, Amida studied Islamic teaching and the Holy Qur’an. On his return from the pilgrimage, Alhaji Yishawu emphasised to Muslims the religious importance of the Hajj and encouraged those who were willing and able to make the journey.

Many prominent Muslims accompanied him on his subsequent pilgrimages. He returned to the Holy Land between 1884 and 1889, travelling by foot, camel, donkey, and boat.
It was Alhaji Yishawu who brought Bùbá Olobìnrin to Lagos. Before then, young and old women reportedly went about in public with their breasts exposed. He also introduced the celebration of the birthday of Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him.
Alhaji Yishawu’s eldest son, Rufai, was the first president of Egbe Kila in Lagos, a society that made significant contributions to the advancement of Islam in the state. Rufai Yishawu had two sons: Masu R. Yishawu and Liadi R. Yishawu.

Masu was the one who brought the German company, Otto Haman, to Nigeria. Liadi R. Yishawu, father of the present Alhaji Agba of Lagos State, Alhaji Modiyu L. Yishawu, was Chairman of Egbe Small Kila. The group included the late Tijani Folawiyo, father of the Baba Adinni of Nigeria and of the Lagos Central Mosque, as well as other members, including Omosola Savage and Sule Kila of Epetedo, Lagos. Gbolahan Yishawu’s paternal grandmother was the daughter of Amora Thomas, whose first son was Okoya Thomas.
He has continued in this rich family tradition of pioneering improvements in many areas of life and engendering positive development in the lives of the people of Lagos State.

GOY in Politics

Gbolahan Yishawu has been actively involved in politics for about 20 years. He has been deeply engaged in political and developmental activities in Ikoyi/Obalende LCDA, his immediate community. He actively participated in politics on the platforms of the Alliance for Democracy, the Action Congress, and the Action Congress of Nigeria, before the parties' transition into the All Progressives Congress.

Apart from his notable contributions to the Egbe over the years - which include electioneering, campaigning, sponsorship of skills-acquisition programmes, community activities, including carnivals and sporting events, and contributions to the personal needs of residents—he served as an Executive Committee Member of Ikoyi/Obalende Local Government Area in 2003.

PROFILE

He was also Vice Chairman of the Bursary and Scholarship Board of Ikoyi/Obalende LCDA in 2005. In these capacities, he served selflessly and conscientiously.

The Legislator

Yishawu was elected to represent Eti-Osa Constituency II in the Lagos State House of Assembly in 2011. He has brought his rich and varied private-sector experience, as well as years of direct grassroots engagement, to bear on the legislative process.

He has remained committed to the Eti-Osa Agenda, with a focus on:

- Education, with emphasis on quality and functionality
- Job creation, with emphasis on entrepreneurship
- Health care, with emphasis on disease prevention

As a member of the Lagos State House of Assembly representing Eti-Osa Constituency 02, he has served as Vice Chairman, House Committee on Education, Science and Technology; Member, House Committee on Public Accounts (State); Member, House Committee on Energy and Mineral Resources; and Member, House Committee on Works and Infrastructure.

He also served on various House ad hoc committees, including the Ad Hoc Committee on the State of Federal Roads in Lagos State and the committee on Dredging and Waterfront Infrastructure.

He has made many contributions to the well-being and safety of Lagosians through various motions and private member's bills. To the glory of God, he has been able to directly touch the lives of many constituents in different areas.

PROFILE

The essence of politics, for me, is service
- GOY

In his primary assignment as a lawmaker in the Lagos State House of Assembly, he has had the privilege of sponsoring and co-sponsoring four private member's bills and superintending over two executive bills in his first term.

One of the private member's bills that has become law is the popularly acclaimed Law to Provide for the Regulation of Smoking in Public Places, 2014, which was designed to protect non-smokers in public places. Another bill, the Rape Shield for Rape Victims and Civil Liability Bill, geared towards providing a legal shield for rape victims, encouraging the reporting and prosecution of the crime, and eradicating the stigmatisation of rape victims, is before the House for consideration.

He has also sponsored numerous motions on issues of public interest, including the deplorable condition of barracks in Lagos State and the protection of scarce jobs for local artisans and employees.

In line with the oversight responsibilities of the Assembly, he has worked with Ministries, Departments, and Agencies of government to ensure that the interests of Lagosians are protected and that developmental programmes are carried out in line with the people's expectations.

In furtherance of his commitment to the people, he has expanded his direct-intervention programme in the lives of the people and communities in Lagos.

AGENDA 2027

The GOY 2027 Agenda is one of Consolidation, Expansion and Sustainability. It is built and anchored on the objectives outlined in seven Sustainable Development Goals: Goals 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8 and 9.

It is inspired by the objectives of improving health, education and quality of life; promoting gender inclusion; expanding access to clean water and sanitation; encouraging innovation; deepening skills development; supporting decent work; and strengthening economic empowerment within Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

Our focus shall be on consolidating successful programmes, improving existing interventions, expanding their reach and delivering new value to constituents in areas of increasing importance.

Over the years, we have successfully embarked on programmes in education, healthcare, youth development, women's empowerment, skills acquisition, entrepreneurship, welfare, community infrastructure, water supply systems, environmental management and stakeholder engagement.

The initiatives include the provision of free JAMB and GCE forms, school bags and writing materials, free school bus and boat rides, revision classes, digital-skills development, solar-powered ICT facilities, vocational training, tools of trade, free dental and eye healthcare, health-insurance support, food relief, support for vulnerable residents, borehole rehabilitation, transformers, as well as facilitating the provision of streetlights, road rehabilitation, environmental sanitation and community security initiatives.

Our 2027 Agenda will build on these foundations.

ZERO HUNGER & FOOD SECURITY (SDG 2)

Over the years, we have responded through food-support programmes, food-discount markets, distribution during religious festivals, while collaborating with relevant government initiatives to cushion the pressure on the vulnerable in our constituency. We shall consolidate and expand these interventions.

AGENDA 2027

Food Support and Discount Markets

We will continue to organise food-support programmes. We shall explore opportunities to upscale the structure and reach of the GOY Food Discount Market, ensuring that more residents can purchase essential food items at reduced prices. We shall endeavour to increase the discount from 50% to 75%.

We will continue to support appropriate Lagos State food-relief and food-discount initiatives that provide relief to residents, while engaging relevant government agencies to ensure that the people of Eti-Osa Constituency 02 benefit maximally from such programmes.

We shall support initiatives that promote access to affordable staples, especially for senior citizens, widows, persons living with disabilities, low-income families and other vulnerable residents.

We shall continue to work with market associations, community development associations, religious institutions, cooperatives and youth groups to further identify the most vulnerable to extend welfare assistance to.

GOOD HEALTH AND WELL-BEING (SDG 3)

Health is wealth. The quality of life of our people depends greatly on access to affordable, timely and dignified healthcare services.

Our interventions in free dental healthcare, eye care, cataract surgery, provision of eyeglasses, health screenings, community fumigation, support for families living with neuro-developmental conditions and the free 2-Year Health-insurance enrolment demonstrate the importance we place on preventive care, early diagnosis and protection from out-of-pocket health expenses.

Free Dental Healthcare

Our annual Free Dental Healthcare Programme has become one of the most impactful health interventions in the constituency, providing residents access to oral healthcare services that are often unaffordable. We shall continue and expand the programme.

We shall sustain free dental consultations, scaling and polishing, fillings, tooth extraction surgeries, and other appropriate procedures.

We will also deepen oral-health awareness, especially among children, young people and families, to encourage proper dental hygiene, regular check-ups, reduced intake of harmful sugary substances and early treatment of dental problems.

Free Eye Healthcare

We shall continue to improve our Free Eye Healthcare Programme, which provides vision screening, eye-pressure checks, consultations, refraction tests, prescription eyeglasses and other forms of support for residents of Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

We will strengthen support for cataract, pterygium, glaucoma and other sight-threatening conditions, especially for elderly and vulnerable residents who are unable to afford specialist care. The objective is to prevent avoidable loss of sight and improve the well-being of residents across Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

Free Health Insurance for Residents of Eti-Osa Constituency 02

Our health-insurance intervention has opened a new chapter in our efforts to make healthcare accessible and affordable.

We shall work to expand health-insurance awareness and enrolment across the constituency in partnership with the Lagos State Health Management Agency, Ilera Eko, health providers and other relevant stakeholders.

We will continue to support residents with the GOY health-insurance coverage to ensure that residents are not forced to choose between seeking medical care and meeting basic household needs.

Maternal, Child and Family Health

Just as we moved a motion on the floor of the house for the inclusion of the rotavirus vaccine to protect the children from diarrhoea, influencing its adoption by the Lagos state Ministry of Health, we shall continue to explore opportunities to deepen advocacy and support for maternal and child health, childhood immunisation, antenatal care, postnatal care, nutrition education and health information for parents and guardians.

We will continue to engage relevant state agencies, health facilities, community leaders and civil-society organisations to promote access to available vaccines, early childhood healthcare and health education.

The objective is to reduce preventable illness, improve the quality of life of our children and give mothers and families greater peace of mind.

Mental Health and Special Needs Support

We shall sustain and improve support for individuals living with neurodevelopmental disorders and the families who care for them.

AGENDA 2027

Through periodic therapy outreaches, partnerships with special-needs organisations and professional service providers, we will continue to facilitate access to therapists, counsellors and relevant support networks.

We shall also promote public understanding, empathy and acceptance while challenging stigma and discrimination against persons with special needs.

Advocacy & Free Diabetes Screening

We shall move a motion to mandate routine free screening for Diabetes in all Lagos State General Hospitals for Diabetes, rather than only during specific campaigns, while also organising community outreaches in the Constituency with free screening embedded.

QUALITY EDUCATION (SDG 4)

Education remains the strongest foundation for individual progress, social mobility and national development. We shall continue to invest in our children and young people from the point of school entry to tertiary education, skills development and career preparation.

Our programmes: provision of free school transport, JAMB and GCE forms, revision classes, school bags, writing materials, school renovation, digital centres and youth learning initiatives shall be strengthened to impact more people.

Free School Bus and Boat Rides

The Free School Bus and Boat Ride Scheme has relieved many parents of the cost of transporting children and wards to school and back. It has also helped to promote regular attendance, punctuality and retention in school.

We shall continue to sustain the programme and explore opportunities to improve route efficiency and reduce turnaround times. The objective is to ensure that no child is denied regular access to school because of transportation challenges.

Free JAMB and GCE Forms

Our provision of free JAMB and GCE forms will be sustained and strengthened. We shall continue to support qualified students and candidates who require assistance to register for examinations that open the path to tertiary education and improved academic qualifications.

Over the years, we have supported our undergraduates with scholarships and grants. We are glad that President Bola Ahmed Tinubu introduced NELFUND, which has now filled the gap, helping our undergraduates who require assistance with interest-free payment of their school fees and monthly upkeep, bringing tremendous relief to the students and their parents.

JAMB and GCE Revision Classes

As promised in Agenda 2023, we have gone beyond providing free JAMB and GCE Forms to incorporating free revision classes to ensure that students do not only have the opportunity to register for examinations but also receive the preparation required to succeed.

The programme will continue to provide structured tuition, revision support, examination guidance and exposure to computer-based testing.

We shall improve access to qualified tutors, learning resources, practical CBT sessions and career guidance for students.

The objective is to ensure that opportunity is matched with adequate preparation.

School Bags, Books and Learning Materials

We shall continue to provide school bags, exercise books and other essential learning materials to pupils and students across the constituency.

The programme will continue to reduce the financial pressure on parents at school resumption and help ensure that children return to school ready, confident and properly equipped to learn.

School Improvement and Learning Environment

We shall continue to support the renovation, maintenance and improvement of learning environments in public schools, subject to collaboration with the relevant education authorities.

We shall explore opportunities for additional intervention with the repainting and revitalisation of schools within the constituency to improve the dignity, safety and quality of the learning environment.

Reading Culture and Career Development

We shall introduce and sustain quarterly book-reading sessions, career conversations, mentorship programmes and school engagement activities.

These sessions will involve established writers, corporate leaders, professionals, academics, entrepreneurs and public servants who will engage students on reading, communication, career choices, leadership, ethics and personal development.

AGENDA 2027

We shall continue to encourage a culture of reading, critical thinking, confidence and curiosity among our children.

Digital Centres and Technology Education

We have supported digital learning through school-based ICT centres and the Community Digitech Hub.

We will seek to establish more ICT and digital-learning centres in schools and communities, subject to available resources and partnerships. We shall continue to promote access to computers, internet connectivity, basic digital literacy and emerging technology skills. Our children must not be left behind in a digital world.

GENDER EQUALITY AND WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT (SDG 5)

Women are central to the wellbeing, stability and economic strength of our families and communities. Our Agenda shall continue to promote women's inclusion, economic independence, access to skills, enterprise support, health information and dignified participation in community life.

Women's Vocational School, Keffi, Ikoyi

We shall continue and expand the Free Vocational Training Programme at our Women's Vocational School, Keffi, Ikoyi

The programme will continue to provide practical training in fashion design, catering, hairdressing, soap making, tie and dye, knitting and other income-generating vocations.

We shall strengthen partnerships with the Lagos State Technical and Vocational Education Board, the Federal Ministry of Labour and Employment and other relevant bodies to ensure that the programme remains practical, relevant and linked to real opportunities.

Start-Up Support for Women

We shall continue to support outstanding graduates of our vocational and enterprise programmes with relevant start-up tools, equipment and business-support opportunities.

We will also continue to support women-led micro-businesses, including traders, caterers, seamstresses, home-based entrepreneurs and other small-scale business owners, with our periodic empowerment programmes.

AGENDA 2027

The objective is to promote financial independence, strengthen household income and create more women-owned enterprises that can employ others.

Women's Health and Dignity

We shall continue health-awareness programmes that address women's health needs, including cervical-cancer screening, maternal health, family health information and access to available health services.

We will continue to work with relevant professionals and organisations to promote early screening, preventive care and awareness of health conditions that affect women and families.

Inclusion and Protection

We shall continue to support programmes that promote the inclusion, safety, dignity and welfare of women, girls, elderly women, widows and women living with disabilities.

We shall also continue to advocate for the protection of women and girls from abuse, violence, discrimination and harmful practices.

CLEAN WATER, SANITATION AND ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH (SDG 6)

Access to clean water is a basic necessity. It affects health, dignity, education, household productivity and the quality of life of residents.

Our interventions in borehole rehabilitation, support for water infrastructure, community fumigation and sanitation awareness shall be expanded.

Community Water Projects

We shall continue to engage communities, residents' associations, barracks, institutions and relevant government agencies to identify areas with water-supply challenges.

We facilitated a Public-Private Partnership (PPP) in resolving the protracted public water supply crisis in Dolphin Estate (Duplex) to make the existing public water infrastructure functional, with a sustainable model in place.

With the arrangement in Dolphin Estate now in the final stage of implementation, the model is being adopted by the State Government in reactivating other Water Works.

We will continue to facilitate the rehabilitation, upgrade and maintenance of boreholes, community water facilities and water works, where required and where resources permit.

We shall continue to seek partnerships that will improve access to clean water, strengthen maintenance systems and promote sustainability in water infrastructure.

AGENDA 2027

Sanitation and Waste Management

We shall pursue a stronger sanitation and recycling initiative across households, schools, markets, barracks, commercial centres and public spaces. This complements the proposed Material Recovery Facility being established by the Lagos State Government

The initiative will deepen public enlightenment on proper waste disposal, waste sorting, recycling, plastic collection and responsible environmental behaviour.

We shall explore partnerships that allow residents to exchange recyclable materials, particularly plastics, for points, household items, support packages or other appropriate benefits.

The objective is to make sanitation a shared community responsibility and to encourage residents to see waste not only as a challenge but also as a resource that can be properly managed.

Drainage and Environmental Concerns

We shall continue to draw attention to drainage, de-silting, flash flood concerns, and possible environmental hazards that might affect residents and businesses.

We will continue to engage relevant Ministries, Departments and Agencies to ensure that environmental sanitation concerns within Eti-Osa Constituency 02 receive the attention they deserve.

DECENT WORK, JOB CREATION AND ECONOMIC GROWTH (SDG 8)

The future of our constituency depends on the ability of our people, particularly youths, women, artisans, traders and professionals, to earn a decent living, develop sustainable businesses and create opportunities for others.

Our programmes in vocational skills, enterprise support, start-up assistance, youth entrepreneurship, women's empowerment, artisan support, business-pitch competitions and digital-skills development shall be consolidated and expanded.

Vocational Skills Development

We shall expand support for vocational-skills development to ensure that more residents can receive training in relevant trades and occupations.

AGENDA 2027

Our focus will remain on practical skills that can provide immediate income opportunities, including fashion, catering, hairdressing, mechanics, plumbing, electrical work, welding, vulcanising, digital services, beauty care, repairs, hospitality and other marketable vocations.

Tools of Trade and Artisan Support

We shall continue to support artisans with the tools and equipment required to work independently and improve productivity.

The tools-of-trade programme will continue to target tradesmen and women whose work support households, businesses and communities everyday.

We shall continue to work with artisan associations and other community structures to ensure that assistance reflects the actual needs of beneficiaries.

Youth Entrepreneurship

We shall continue to sustain and improve the GOY Youth Entrepreneurship Programme.

The programme will continue to provide young residents with entrepreneurship training, mentoring, business-plan development, pitching opportunities and support for viable business ideas, while new industry-need tracks will be added.

We shall seek to improve access to business networks, incubation support, financial-literacy training, business registration guidance and opportunities for deserving participants to access start-up support.

Our young people must be encouraged not only to seek jobs but also to create value, build businesses and become employers of labour.

Digital Jobs and the Creative Economy

We shall expand support for digital-skills development, technology careers, remote work opportunities, creative enterprise and new forms of employment.

The future of work is changing rapidly. Our young people must have the opportunity to acquire skills in graphic design, data analytics, digital marketing, web development, software development, UI/UX design, content creation, communication, business technology and related fields.

INDUSTRY, INNOVATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE (SDG 9)

Innovation, infrastructure and enterprise remain critical to the economic progress of Eti-Osa Constituency 02 and Lagos State. We shall build on existing programmes and pursue new structures that support innovation, business growth, community infrastructure, safety and modern urban development.

GOY Innovation and Digital Hub

We shall expand the vision of the GOY Innovation and Digital Hub, creating more Hubs to accommodate increasing demand from the youth for its offering.

The hub will continue to serve as a learning, innovation and collaboration space where young residents, entrepreneurs, creatives and technology enthusiasts can develop ideas, access training, work with mentors and connect with industry practitioners.

It will continue to support digital literacy while expanding opportunities in innovation, technology, enterprise and the creative economy.

Over time, we shall work towards developing the platform into a stronger incubation and acceleration environment for viable youth-led ventures.

Enterprise Revolving Fund

We shall work towards a more structured and sustainable enterprise-support framework for nano and micro businesses in the constituency.

The Enterprise Revolving Fund will build on some our previous initiatives to formalise support for viable new and existing businesses while promoting transparency, responsibility and sustainability.

Subject to the appropriate framework, partnerships and available resources, the fund, will be designed to assist residents who require support to acquire equipment, increase working capital, formalise businesses or expand productive enterprises.

We shall explore administration through credible financial institutions, cooperatives and relevant partners to ensure accountability and sustainability.

Roads, Streetlights, Electricity and Community Amenities

We shall continue to identify and support community infrastructure needs through engagement with residents, relevant government agencies and other stakeholders.

Our interventions in roads, waste management, de-silting, drainage maintenance, solar-powered streetlights, transformers, boreholes, public facilities, security gates and emergency-response infrastructure have demonstrated the importance of targeted community projects.

AGENDA 2027

We shall continue to advocate and lobby for government projects in Eti-Osa Constituency 02 as is needed, while continuing to engage with communities to identify priority projects and channel support as resources permit.

Community Safety and Emergency Preparedness

We shall continue to support safety infrastructure through engagement with residents' associations, community leaders, security agencies and relevant government authorities.

We will advocate for improved emergency response, fire safety, community surveillance, safer public spaces and stronger collaboration between residents and security institutions.

Modern Urban Development and Lease Renewal

We shall continue to support the orderly regeneration of our communities, particularly in areas where land tenure, congestion, drainage, access roads, environmental sanitation and ageing infrastructure require urgent attention.

The approval of the 50-year lease renewal under the Obalende South-West Ikoyi Urban Regeneration Scheme offers a major opportunity for planned redevelopment, improved property confidence and better urban living.

We shall continue to engage the Lagos State Government, property owners, residents and relevant agencies to ensure that the process is transparent, inclusive, properly managed and beneficial to the people of Obalende and the wider constituency. The renewal and regeneration approach has been publicly reported as involving 213 plots being reorganised into 100 planned parcels, subject to planning and documentation requirements

PEOPLE-CENTRED REPRESENTATION

I shall continue with my established tradition of vibrant contributions on the floor of the House, constructive interaction with colleagues and constant liaison with the Executive, Ministries, Departments and Agencies to promote the right policies and ensure their implementation.

The main thrust of my representation shall remain the protection of the diverse interests of every segment of our constituency, ensuring that policies, motions and bills take into consideration the interests of the Elite and the middle class, while protecting the vulnerable and securing the interests of the people of Eti-Osa Constituency 02 at all times.

Legislation and Oversight

I will continue to use the instrument of legislation, motions, policy formulation, resolutions, petitions and oversight to improve liveability for our people and contribute to a better Lagos State.

I remain committed to legislation that protects the vulnerable, promotes public safety, strengthens healthcare rights, supports innovation, improves public accountability and advances sustainable development.

I shall continue to work with my colleagues, the executive, , government agencies, professionals and civil-society stakeholders to promote laws and policies that protect citizens and improve the quality of public service.

Lagos Patient's Bill of Rights

We shall continue to advocate for stronger protection of patients in hospitals and health facilities.

The objective of the Lagos Patient's Bill of Rights remains to protect residents from abuse, negligence, overbilling and exposure to malpractice, while setting clear expectations for healthcare providers in their treatment of patients.

We will continue to engage relevant stakeholders towards a framework that strengthens patient dignity, accountability, quality of care and access to information within the healthcare system.

Lagos State Safe Schools Bill

I will be working with my colleagues for the continued safety, security and protection of schools, learners, teachers and education personnel in Lagos State.

The Safe Schools Bill seeks to establish a Lagos State Safe Schools Framework; to provide for minimum school security standards, early warning and emergency response mechanisms; to establish a Safe Schools Trust Fund; to provide for safe school certification, school security audits, community participation, technology-driven security management, legislative oversight and for connected purposes.

AGENDA 2027

Lagos State Urban & Regional Data Surveillance Bill (Sponsored for Consideration)

We will continue to support policies that strengthen urban safety, emergency response, planning and responsible use of technology.

I have proposed the Lagos State Urban & Regional Data Surveillance Bill to ensure that any proposed framework on surveillance, building data and urban security balances the need for public safety with the constitutional rights to privacy, dignity and protection from unlawful intrusion.

The goal is to support a safer Lagos without compromising the rights of law-abiding citizens.

Lagos State Research Trust Fund Bill (Sponsored for Consideration)

A modern city requires sound research to solve complex problems in housing, transportation, flood management, education, healthcare, security, the environment and the economy. That is why I proposed the Lagos State Research Trust Fund Bill, which is currently under Consideration by the House.

We will continue to promote the role of research, data, innovation, and evidence-based policy in the development of Lagos State. We will support frameworks that encourage relevant research, promote collaboration between government and institutions of learning, and ensure that public policy is informed by reliable data and practical solutions.

OPEN-DOOR POLICY AND COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Our open-door policy shall continue. Apart from our regular town-hall and stakeholders' meetings, we shall deepen engagement with professional associations, Community Development Associations, youth groups, women's groups, religious bodies, residents' associations, artisans, market associations, persons living with disabilities, senior citizens, ethnic community leaders and other interest groups within the constituency.

The Annual Constituency Stakeholders' Meeting has become an important platform for accountability, dialogue and participatory governance. We shall continue to strengthen it.

We have also introduced the Eti-Osa Constituency O2 Residents' Dialogue Series, which involves us visiting the different Estates and Communities within our constituency with senior Government Officials for conversations around policy and governance issues.

We shall deepen our feedback mechanisms to ensure that the concerns of communities are properly articulated and relayed to the relevant authorities for action.

Constituency Helpdesk and Call Lines

Our constituency office shall remain accessible to every resident who wishes to engage with us. All our communication platforms, including constituency call lines, WhatsApp channels, social-media platforms, community contact persons and other feedback mechanisms shall continue to remain open for complaints, requests, suggestions or emergency referrals.

Here are social media channels and email address:

Constituency Case-Tracking Register

We shall be introducing a Constituency Case -Tracking Register o enable us and residents track the status of reports filed at the Constituency Office. Reference numbers will be issued, with Residents receiving private updates as at when due.

Newsletter and Stewardship Report

We shall continue to circulate the constituency newsletter and other stewardship communications as a feedback mechanism and a medium for rendering account to the people.

The people deserve to know what their representative is doing, the issues being raised, the projects being pursued, the challenges encountered, and the progress being recorded.

Transparency remains central to trust. To continue to earn your trust, we must redouble our efforts at transparency.

AGENDA 2027

OUR COMMITMENT

With your prayers, support and vote, we shall continue to consolidate the progress we have made and expand the frontiers of development in Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

We have done much together, but there is still much more to accomplish. We will continue to invest in our children. We will continue to empower our women and youths.

We will continue to lend our ears to feedback and suggestions from all segments, including the Elite, Middle Class, Working Class and Business interests within our constituency to ensure that all concerns around community development and business-friendly environment continue to receive attention,.

We will continue to support our artisans, traders, entrepreneurs and vulnerable residents. We will continue to improve access to healthcare, food relief, water, sanitation, safety and community infrastructure.

We will continue to speak for Eti-Osa Constituency 02., putting the people first at all times,.

Once again, I humbly solicit your support in the forthcoming elections so that I may continue to serve as your representative in the Lagos State House of Assembly.

Thank you so much.

God bless you.

God bless Eti-Osa Constituency 02.

God bless Lagos State.

God bless the Federal Republic of Nigeria.
